Outline of Aims

To define and divide, to clarify and reveal, to retrospect and portray. This stands as our purpose. Our yearbook is defined as a story of the year 1958 as it was lived by students of the University of Detroit. We divide our book into two major parts: the events of the school year 1958 and the people who lived that year. We clarify by renewing old thoughts and making them once again clear and vivid in your mind. We reveal many things that we hope are novel to you, interesting in part, informative also. We look back on the past year and record with picture and word stories the 1958 year that you had a part in—for you are part of the record. We attempt last of all to portray that year, with colors and black and whites, with quips and cutlines, copy blocks and drawings. This is the past from which we quarry the materials that you find in this book. Actually it is a building with the cornerstone engraved University of Detroit, 1958. But you must page through and tour and see if this is the building that you think it is, if this is the edifice that you helped to build in 1958. That is why we present TOWER, 1958.

With these thoughts in mind follow along and see more of the plan of our work. We have told you of the two parts, the building and the builders. The events of the past year occupy the first half of the volume. Registration, Homecoming, Basketball, Carnival: these are only a few of the many things you will find included here. You can reattend the University theater, watch the Titans in action, revisit lecture halls and dorms, and sit once again over coffee in the Union. This half is broken into four parts, each part with its purposeful color to guide you through it, each part a section of a chronology. But this is only half of 1958. The other half is the people who lived this year at the university. There are those from the upper echelon who leave on graduation. There are the Greeks, the Organization members, the Administration. They comprise the second half of the book. We have said our part; it remains for you to look.

Part I---Division

A quaking day, amber, vital, reaching, gathers, deepens, draws its essence in a cooling hue firing warm, thickening in its pigment. Striking silent in its pressing reach, the massing swirl passes deep its minute jet of crimson flame. Yawning fragments slower dented supple to its liquid flow. A fresh exuberance milky red spreads its weary, painful stanza deep, dark, unblotted.

Foggy wisps of fresh, vibrant dew circles buildings pearly gray, trenched in tradition's aging ivy. The seasoned ground lies open, cold, and gray. Autumned cheers filtering webs of sunlight grasp environments of steel gray days, gray with knowledge slowly wrought in hourly struggles sharply met. Pensive moods charting student thoughts stir academic veins to channeled paths of guarded truths revealed.

Streaking ribbons velvet yellow smoothened bright, veiled, softened light, tone minds strengthened, trained compact. A misty echo warming light, eclipses darkness, melting shadows nearly dim. Twilight's pom pom shimmering golden, crystal, silver, gleams beneath winter sun's modulated breath. Harvest shades leaning towards ambition's blade bound out darting strains, gathered now to ban ignorance bare.

Starlight waters calmly cool, lapping shores distant, vague, jewel blue diamond hopes of ne'r-reached goals. Heaven's dome harbor blue in blotted white touching archways timely sought, marry dreams, captured, gained. An arduous apex snowfrost blue ties a steeper climb ensued. Twisting trails winding south meeting crossroads edging west hide a future barely seen, dimly lit, unmapped treasures grasped, attained.

Introduction 1

This is Introduction 1, the first of four previews on what is to follow. Registration and WTVS-TV with its student activity is presented here. Fall is a warm season with Homecoming as its chief highlight of activity. There are features on Student Government, the Student Trip to Cincinnati, and so on. Most important, there is the pulse of life that walks in the school year and sets all the wheels of social, academic and athletic life turning. You remember these things but we will help make that image more vivid in your mind.

WTVS-TV presents a great variety of cultural and educational programs.

Registration Is an Engrossing Task

A NEW SEMESTER—THE MEMORIAL BUILDING ARENA IS FILLED WITH WAITING LINES AND CRAMPED WRITING HANDS.

Registration

You come in the fall to register and enroll. You pick a semester of courses from your red and white catalog. You sign your name a great many times, the bursar assesses your fees, you pay your tuition per credit hour, and you are registered. But this is all a very complex task. It involves long lines, countless questions, decisions, information, checking, stamping, and waiting. This year fortunately the waiting was cut to a minimum. Thanks to a new program for registration many more facilities were located in the arena than in previous years so that almost any problem could be solved without ever leaving the building: advisors, bursar, dean of men, all were right on the spot to do their respective work. And so, for most people the burden was greatly lightened. But, let's see just what did happen to many students at registration.

Professors in the main arena register several students for their respective courses.

A view of lines forming in front of the registering tables each day of registration.

This Is

This is the pick-up point for those class admittance cards that you must have stamped by the bursar.

This course in psychology is offered at four different hours, three times a week, so you have a choice.

Where Conflicts Arise and Are Solved

The first major step after entering the arena for registration is an attempt to sign up for your prescribed courses with the best possible hours in the shortest time possible. But conflicts arise: you need two courses and they are both offered at the same time: a conflict. However, you can even solve problems like this with the aid of the newly placed advisors posted about the arena. And the trouble over the eight o'clock classes is shrugged off with a light laugh on your part. But all this takes time and soon you find an hour passed, and you are only sitting down to fill out your pile of cards. In the meantime another cycle or two of students has moved into the arena to begin registering, and you hasten to complete your cards and move on to the checking table.

THE DEAN OF MEN, TOM EMMET, AND SECRETARY CHECK SOME APPLICATION BLANKS SUBMITTED.

Everyone

Students enter the arena only after proper identification and checking are complete.

Filling out the list of information required for registration becomes more tedious each year in college. However it is never more confusing than in the freshman year. Ranging all the way from telephone numbers of high schools you last attended to your choice of musical instruments, this wad of material can be considered as rather impressive. But you have an inkling that the cards are torn apart and distributed to separate sets of files all over campus where they become insignificant pieces of large series. All of this taxes your patience and eyes and your pen's ink supply. Name spaces are too short; you forget your phone number; your catalog disappears. But you write on and fill in, vainly hoping that next year the system will be greatly altered.

The series of cards entails a great number of signatures, dates, and addresses.

Faces Some Problem

EVEN THE REGISTRARS FIND THE GOING ROUGH LATE IN THE AFTERNOON AND SEEK A BIT OF QUIET AND RELAXATION.

A photograph is necessary to complete the student's identification card.

There is some degree of variety on the program of registration. Some lines have interesting endings. Your identification card requires a picture of you on it. The bursar in the basement office needs some money from you before he can put his stamp of approval on your tuition card and your class cards. Freshmen when first entering U. of D. have to pass a physical examination. ROTC candidates pass an elaborate check while others merely fill out several brief questionnaires. And then there is the familiar frosh insignia, the beanie. A diligent group at the exit door help the green-looking fellows and coeds remember their duties to the upper classes and pass out the beanies which are to be worn until Freshman Liberation Day. But although your route through registration is somewhat varied the most dominant impression that you have is doubtlessly one of relief when it is completed.

The last phase is hardest—signing checks or handing over money. A stamp on a card and you are paid in full.

The first group of freshmen move through the physical exam line where a blood sample is taken.

How about you Freshman? Do you have your beanie and tickets to the Freshman Welcome Dance? It's the way to start your social life here.

Fall Was a Time of Seasonal

Delta Pi Kappa selected their Belle at the Botsford Inn during the Scribes Ball.

Social Activity

Beginning the U. of D. social season with a special view to the freshmen, the series of talent shows, movie, and outing was culminated with the get acquainted Freshmen Welcome Dance. The stag affair was planned to initiate new friendships among freshmen and was arranged in an informal cabaret style. The Football Frolic sponsored by Delta Sigma Pi and Chi Omicron served as a refresher between freshmen events and centered around the formal presentation of the football team. In an attempt to hold low cost social functions a high quality orchestra, low ticket price, and convenience of location were planned as appealing inducements to attendants. An additional freshmen affair was the Freshmen Welcome Tea held by the Women Students' League. In order to make the new students feel more at home, Big Sisters were assigned to each new girl and offered tips on social and academic questions. In addition, a fashion show was planned both as entertainment for the group and clarification concerning proper dress apparel for the freshmen coeds. Delta Pi Kappa held their annual Scribes Ball at Botsford Inn and highlighted the charming evening with the presentation of their elected queen.

The Titan football was presented at this year's Football Frolic.

The Fall Frolic offered decorative autumn settings with candlelighted tables as Marge Johnson and Chuck Drouillard readily discovered.

Large or Small, Dances

Presented by Phi Sigma Kappa, the 27th annual Fall Frolic was the scene of the presentation of the Homecoming Queen candidates. The informal dance emphasized a "dance for dancing's sake" theme with help from the soft lights and musical atmosphere provided. The Bonfire Bounce added further spirit to the Homecoming game festivities. The informality of sock dancing increased the spontaneous enthusiasm of the occasion and colorful balloons and streamers set the carefree mood. From the opening strains of the first half-time number to the fading ones of "Goodnight Sweetheart" the spirit was gay and the determination to win the all-important game strong. One of the high points of the year occurred with the Homecoming Dance where music was provided by the Collegians and the B-Jays. Shakespearean decoration served as a background as the dancers circled a floorpiece depicting the three witches of Macbeth.

Channel 56--WTVS-TV

Freshman Liberal Arts

WTVS-TV, Channel 56, represents the University's membership in the Detroit Educational Television Foundation. Working along with eighteen other civic, cultural and educational member groups in the metropolitan area, U. of D. has made great steps in the past year to put the electronic medium to the use it can fill in a modern-day community. The transmitter for the television station is located at WDTR, the Detroit Public Schools' radio station. The University's broadcasting studios are in the Elmer J. and Annie U. Smith Radio-TV Center on Puritan Avenue only a short block from campus. Studio equipment includes two complete studios with control rooms, a master control room, several cameras, motion picture and slide facilities, a construction shop, photographic dark room and studio and a large music library. Mr. William J. Murphy is chairman of the Radio-TV area of the Communication Arts department.

Program Offered by WTVS

Perhaps the major development that took place at the WTVS-TV Center this year was the introduction in September of a complete academic schedule via TV. This is an outstanding milestone in television for it is the very first complete freshman liberal arts course offered via TV. WTVS is an UHF station and freshmen were given reduction rates in tuition so as to be able to purchase a special set with an adapter so that they could receive the academic telecasts in their own homes. This not only helped ease the crowded classroom conditions on campus but it also saved students the troublesome daily transit problem. At least one weekly, on-campus attendance was required of the students; they were furnished social and co-curricular information via a short news broadcast from the station. The program was also extended throughout the second semester this year because of its success.

Mr. W. J. Murphy, chairman of the Radio-TV area of Communications Arts.

Thanks to the remarkable work done by Mr. Murphy, chairman, and his capable staff, the television studios have presented to viewers a valuable type of televiewing. With the emphasis on cultural and educational programs the work has provided a perfect training spot for U. of D.'s communication arts program students.

Elaborate Preparation Precedes Every Program of Telecasting

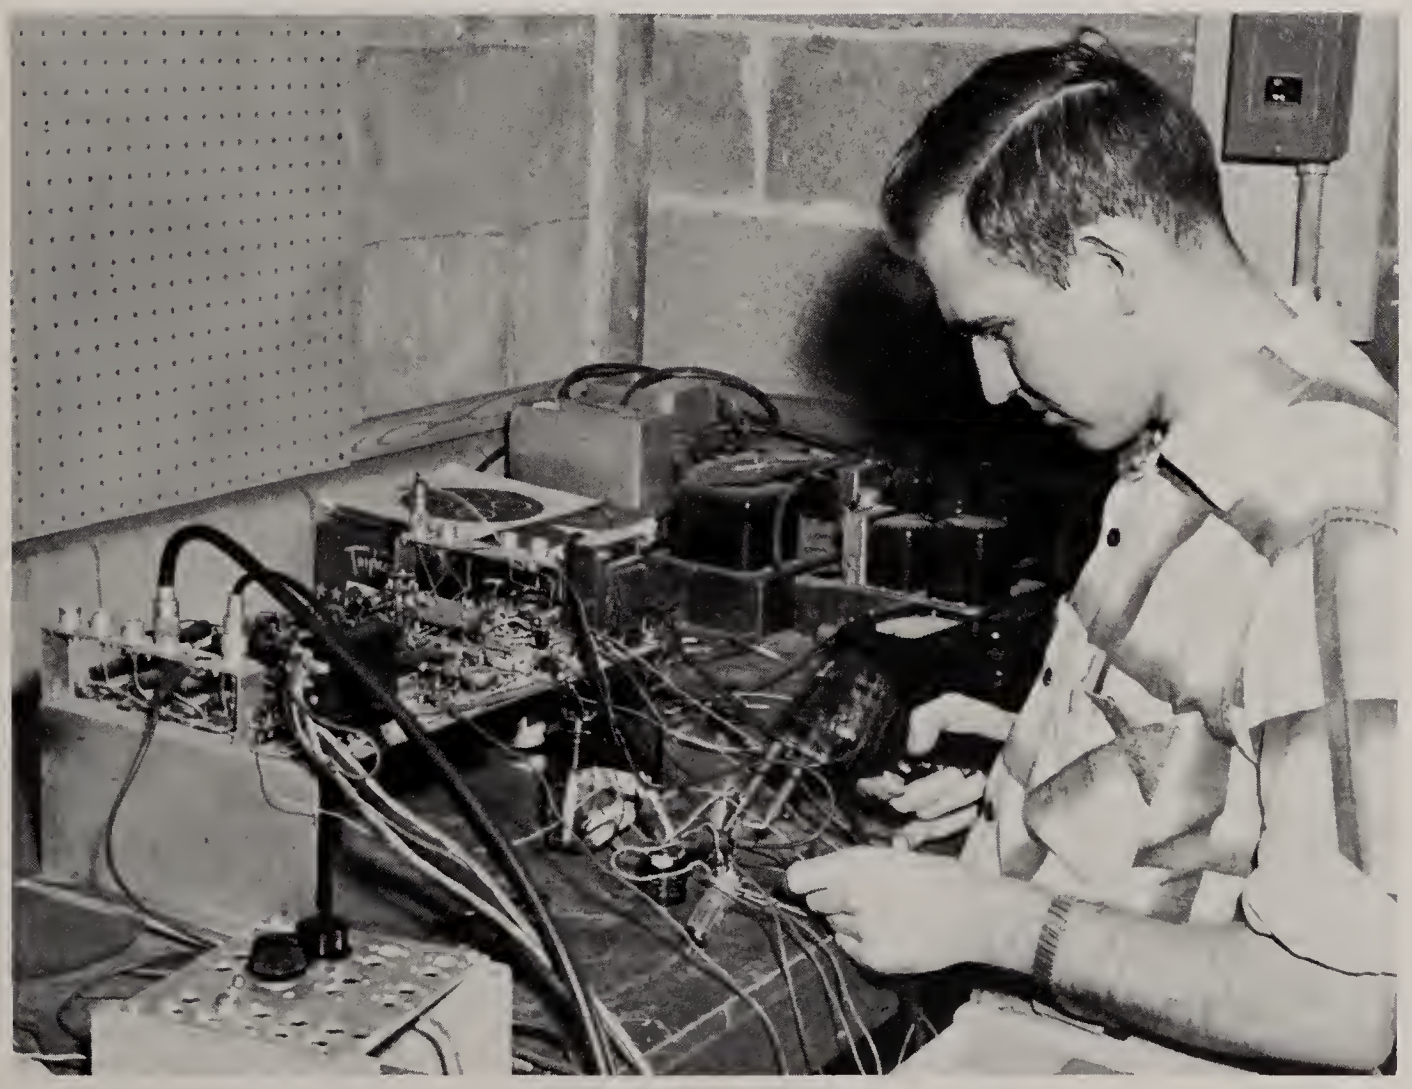
Patching and cleaning occupy time for two members of the staff.

Overhead spots need focusing and readjustment before programs.

A prop crew works to prepare a background setting.

In the television studio there is a construction shop that can usually be found occupied by a group of people working on one of the many phases of television preparation. Because of the continuous nature of the medium once a telecast has begun, everything must be immediately at hand before time. Props, lights, scripts, cameras, personnel: a broad category of necessities. This training in the always important phase of pre-telecast preparation is one thing that for sure is not missed by the staff of WTVS, for each small endeavor aimed towards a perfect telecast is important, from director to lens cleaner.

The staff includes men trained in electronic repair, maintenance and overhaul.



Every component of modern equipment is a maze of wires, solderings and small condensors.

The control room director relays the best image to the transmitter.

Education Has Modernized Set

Included in the station's telecasting schedule is the comprehensive freshman liberal arts program being offered for the first time this year over WTVS. The program comprises 15 hours of classes in Spanish, Theology, English, Psychology and History. The courses are offered in their entirety in the afternoon for day students and some of them in the evening for night-school followers. They are all full-credit college courses and supply the student with a complement of education such as he would receive in the standard classroom period. Because of the lack of on the spot questions, students, who are spared as long a class period over TV as on-campus attenders, are encouraged to write down queries which are then answered by professors during their on-campus weekly attendances. And in spite of rumors to the contrary—there is homework.

Prof. Gordon L. Farrell teaches the Elementary Spanish course four times a week on WTVS.

Prof. Eugene Grewe instructs in English Composition and Rhetoric, both day and evening schools.

A course on The Life of Christ is given by Fr. Edward J. Hodous, S.J., theology professor.

Students Organized for Government

The University's Student Council serves as the students' major organ of representation and administration on campus. The two functioning bodies of the Council, the Student Union Board representing the male students with Ed Siwik as president, and the Women Students' League with Marilyn Mencotti as president incorporate and provide student social activities and stimulate campus spirit. The Union Annex with its assortment of campus garb and miscellany and the basement recreation room are operated under the supervision of the Union Board. This year several cultural music concerts, Sunday evening movies, and after-game dances were conducted under the auspices of the Council. This year's social calendar was presented by the Council. Various elections such as Carnival and Homecoming committees are also supervised by the Council.

The Union Building provides pool-room recreational facilities.

The Freshman Welcome Dance is one social offering of the Council.

The Student Council Sponsors Annual

The annual student seminar was held Saturday, September 28 and was comprised of two representatives from each of the 132 co-curricular campus activities. Organized under the direction of Jim Bush, the program consisted of addresses by the Very Rev. Celestin J. Steiner, S.J., President, and Dr. John Dempsey, associate professor of political science. Emphasis was placed on the need of the student to seek the co-curricular activities which would best fulfill his own particular needs. Early in the meeting the students separated into groups to discuss their similar interests and common problems. Patrick McNally, Arts junior, acted as master of ceremonies and directed open floor debates following each group consultation. Among those problems discussed were a revision of the social calendar, the stimulation of greater school spirit, the financial condition and commitments of the Student Council, and the incorporation of greater variety into campus activities. The Student Council sponsored the affair and served lunch to the attendants about midway through the conference.

Pat McNally handled the MC task with proficiency.

The periods of debate often required consultation and discussion on the platform.

Manifold Activities

Homecoming is a time of returning. We have come back to school, to books, to sports, to campus activities. The library, the union are filled once again this year with life and movement. It is a good feeling, this back-at-home feeling that fall and the reopening of the academic year brings. This good feeling finds outlet in the round of parading, dancing, the pep rally, the game and bustling that occurs during homecoming week-end. It is indeed a time chockfull of activity. Come tour with us and see how it felt to be back in school once again.

The Parade Was

King Football on Phi Sigma Kappa's throne.

This year the Homecoming Parade was a melee of Shakespearean scenes. Quotes from tragedy and comedy brought out a variety of colorful floats in both a serious and comic vein. Under the white light of spots and streetlamps, accompanied by the music of three bands and a whistling calliope and interspersed with color guards, a tank and the Marylinettes, the floats moved down Livernois, between the crowds of onlookers, past the judges' stand and into the stadium. There were big floats and small ones, elaborate and unique ones, but they were all U. of D. Homecoming Parade floats and that made them all the better.

This is Kappa Beta Gamma's "When the Hurley Burley's Done."

There were some rowdy Romans afoot and in chariot to stimulate humor.

Reno Hall's "Tragedy of King Richard II" was a very realistic float.

In the conglomeration of campus events that is homecoming, strange things are mixed together in common. There is a royal queen chosen who reigns with her court in not a little solemnity and pomp. But then there is also that group of boisterous rogues which supplies the entertainment and necessary ingredient of humor to the treat that homecoming most definitely is. From the beautiful to the comic: this is the scope. Its variety makes it colorful, adding to the enjoyment possible. Its meaning makes it personal and us proud of it. All in all it is a complete thing.

The Bounce

The Men of Note provided music for the dancers at the Bonfire Bounce.

After the Homecoming parade had passed the judging stand on Six-Mile and moved off the streets, the onlookers poured onto the large parking lot north of the Homecoming Bonfire. The pep-rally featured cheerleaders, coaches, the President, Queen and court, all striving to stir up school spirit, to spur the Titans on to victory for the Homecoming game on the morrow. After rousing cheers led by the men and gals in cardinal and white and several short addresses, the wood was set aflame at the Queen's command. When the fire died down the crowd moved indoors to the fieldhouse for the casual Bonfire Bounce for which the Men of Note supplied the music.

The evening's indoors activity was opened by the casual Bounce.

Homecoming

The band and guard waited at attention for her arrival.

Queen Barbara arrived on the field.

Half-Time

The numerous organizations and committees which knit themselves into one compact, smoothly operating unit for Homecoming carried through the climatic test —that of the half-time show and ceremonies. The resulting effects of their worries, plans and labors was a spectacular and thoroughly entertaining day-light pageantry of cheerful colors. The thronging, shouting spectators reviewed the parading floats, some a bit shaky from the ordeal of the previous night. Then entered the marshalled R.O.T.C. color guard introducing Queen Barbara Feehan and her court. The coronation itself, the spirited applause, the happiness of participants and perceptors made half-time what it should be.

Begin Their 5th Annual Migration

The click of the rails and the sway of the coach set a quiet mood, a drowsy mood which had many of the passengers on board the Titan Special dozing off as they reminisced and recalled the many events of the past three days. It was one o'clock Friday afternoon, November 1, when about 100 traveling students of the University of Detroit boarded their chartered coaches at the Michigan Central Depot. The first leg of the journey was a noisy one with an abundance of spirit very evident as the diesels roared on, making their way towards Cincinnati where two buses waited to carry the travelers to the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel.

To Our Students

The train gradually jerked to a stop; a few of the dozing passengers woke up and found that they were in Toledo, one and one-half hours from home, then went back to sleep, something they did not have much of the past two nights. That party Friday night lasted until five in the morning, while Saturday evening was just as bad, with the 12:30 A.M. Mass sandwiched between a number of affairs. The football game was tremendous, and the group really celebrated both at the game and at the hotel where it put on a victory demonstration in the hotel lobby. It was almost four-thirty Sunday afternoon when the Titan Special worked its way back into Detroit, and the strains of the U. of D. fight song floated into the station. The Fifth Annual Student Trip had come to an end, another fun-filled weekend for Titan supporters.

A Return to Basic Questions about God

The retreat this year was comprised of a three day series of addresses, readings, and spiritual exercises aimed at a reconsideration and eventual strengthening of spiritual life of each male and coed on campus. Fr. Chamberlain, S.J. conducted the male retreat in the Memorial Building, but the coeds were privileged to have more commodious quarters in Gesu church. After a three-day period of retrospection and meditation it is sure that many campus people found solutions to the problems that face them daily, and thus were enabled to live better and more valuable Catholic lives as college students.

Benediction closed each of the daily series of talks for the participants.

and Man

Fr. Chamberlain addresses male students from the Memorial Building podium.

Holy Communion at the start of each day gave the coeds grace for retreat.

Psychological Center

The Petoskey Avenue home in which the Psychological Services Center is located has been the scene for a great deal of activity in the past year. The Center plays a little known role on campus in spite of numerous career guidance tests, reading development exercises which are given, the testing equipment used and the advisory psychologists who use the Center as their workshop. Students, both under University programs and through personal advisors, can take advantage of the manifold facilities offered by the Center to solve their academic and vocational problems. The Center, under the direction of Fr. Carron, S.J., also stores an extensive amount of factual data concerning every University student which may be of use to the student, or to his professors and advisors.

Introduction 2

Introduction 2 leads on further in our chronology of the year. We move onward to Football and snow, Christmas and plays. This is an indoors season; grey out-of-doors has forced our inward moves. But there is life that never ceases. Activities continue, minds and bodies develop. We go home on vacation for several weeks leaving the campus and its buildings behind. Time moves quickly and the semester scarcely begun is ending rapidly. But move through this part and see what it recalls and relives for you.

Winter gives the campus ground a protective coating of whiteness.

The 1957 Titan Football Team

There was an air of optimism in the Titan training camp at Brighton, Michigan last summer when Head Coach Wally Fromhart discussed his team's chances for the coming season. Why this sense of security? Only one year before there was also a note of optimism in the coach's speech, while, in reality, the team had a rather dismal season. This year Coach Fromhart's opinion was based primarily upon three things: talent, depth, and a new offensive system. This was the year that the Gus Dorais Foundation would first take effect, supplying the team with better and more football players than at any time during recent years. Wally Fromhart's optimism was justified; that can be seen by reviewing the results of the 1957 University of Detroit football season.

Marquette U.

The University of Detroit marked what was to be the start of a new era as they overwhelmed Marquette University 14-0 in the opening game of the 1957 campaign on September 21. With the first platoon of players from the Gus Dorais Memorial Scholarship Foundation in action, the Titans gained their third straight victory over Marquette. Sophomore Bruce Maher counted Detroit's first touchdown on a four-yard slant off left tackle late in the second quarter. His effort climaxed a 31-yard drive. Quarterback Lou Faoro passed 10 yards on fourth down to Al Korpak for the Titans' other touchdown late in the third period following a 61-yard piledriving assault. Detroit's linemen were outstanding in restraining the Marquette attack, but it was this same zeal which cost the home eleven two other scores, both of which were called back because of holding penalties. The famed water bucket was assured of another year of quiet in the halls of U. of D.

And USAF Provide Titan Opposition

It was a practically cloudless, very warm Saturday afternoon at Denver University Stadium where the University of Detroit was to meet the Air Force Academy in an attempt to win their second game of the season. The Titans took advantage of a bad pass from center to score their first touchdown as Dan Collins went eleven yards over left tackle. The Cadets promptly tied the score as they went 89 yards in fifteen plays with Steve Galios going the last 23 yards on a reverse. Early in the second period the Air Force took a 12-6 lead as John Kuenzal went a few inches on a fourth down play. Midway in the fourth period, the home eleven took a 13 point lead as Larry Jackson scored on a two yard plunge, culminating a 73 yard drive. Detroit retaliated quickly as Lou Foaro passed 62 yards to Al Korpak, but they could not improve upon the 19-12 deficit which evened their season record at one victory and one defeat.

Offensive Surge

The University of Detroit scored twice through the air and twice on the ground in handing the University of Wichita a 28-0 defeat. In the first half the Titans showed a tremendous defensive goal line stand. Lou Faoro pitched a 17 yard touchdown toss to Al Korpak after five minutes of play. The stage was again set when Ray Vogl fumbled Detroit's initial punt and Dick Kennedy recovered it for the Titans on the 22 yard line. Wichita's only serious threat came in the opening series of the second quarter when the Titans held four downs on the one-foot line after the Wheatshockers had a first down on the two. A 17 yard scoring pass from Don Collins to Dave Dahlkemper broke the Wichita defense in the third quarter. In the last period Collins raced 13 yards for another marker and Larry Strimas plunged one yard for the finale.

The Titan eleven helped the University celebrate Homecoming Day as they were less than congenial hosts to Xavier University of Ohio on October 19. The contest was a tense one in which the lead seesawed most of the afternoon. Xavier obtained an early lead as they took advantage of a fumbled punt on the Detroit 32. Three plays later Bruce Maher went 59 yards around right end to tie the score. Early in the second period Joe Pascuzzi booted a 21 yard field goal, but saw the 10-7 lead vanish seconds before the end of the half when Jerry Casper went one yard to culminate a brilliant drive. The third period was tense but scoreless until one of Bill Dando's passes went astray at midfield, and the visiting eleven pushed across another score. Lou Faoro then guided the Titans the length of the field in a drive capped by a tremendous catch by Dave Dahlkemper in the end zone. Billy Russell cemented the 30-20 victory with a 66 yard run down the left sidelines.

Travels to Cincinnati for Victory

Boston College made a brilliant goal line stand in the final 90 seconds to protect a 20-16 margin over the Titans. For a moment the fans thought Detroit had completed a successful comeback when quarterback Lou Foaro sneaked over from the one-yard line. But his effort was nullified by a backfield in motion penalty. Detroit gained a 9-0 halftime lead. Korpak plunged for a touchdown from the one-yard line, climaxing a 77-yard drive. Joe Pascuzzi booted a 24-yard field goal with only 25 seconds of the half remaining after the Titans drove 72 yards. Boston moved ahead 13 to 9 with two touchdowns in the third quarter. The Titans regained the lead early in the fourth quarter. Russell went over from the four-yard line, ending a sensational 70-yard drive. Then came Boston's decisive 69-yard drive for the final touchdown.

Over one hundred University of Detroit fans were on hand as their team played one of its best games of the season at Nippert Stadium, November 2, the home of the University of Cincinnati Bearcats. The Titans dominated play during the first period but could not score on any of their three drives. The Bearcats, meanwhile, pushed across a score during the second period of play and led 6-0 when the area high school bands took the field for their half-time show. Midway through the third period Detroit, aided by a pass interference penalty, took a short-lived lead as Lou Faoro went seven yards with a double reverse lateral. At the beginning of the final period Cincinnati's Jack Lee went four yards on the option before Detroit began a dazzling display of ball handling. Tom Hunter passed to Al Korpak for one touchdown and Bruce Maher scored another to give the visitors a 20-12 victory at the final gun.

As Detroit Receives Bowl Feelers

There's nothing like the warmth of victory to remove the sting of a frigid football afternoon. The Titans were more than warmed up when they came out on top in this game. Detroit's improving football forces jelled in the final three quarters to defeat Villanova and insure a winning football year. Here was a game in which both teams appeared evenly matched, but it was Detroit who possessed the offensive knowhow when the occasions demanded. The game was salted away in the last six minutes by a picture pass play. Lou Faoro hit Bill Russell with a perfect toss at the 29. Billy shook off the Villanova safety and went into the end zone. The Titans had plenty of trouble in the first period as they had to throw back three Villanova threats, but they gained momentum as they picked up a safety, thanks to the heads up ball playing of Dromgold and Kennedy who spilled the Villanova quarterback in the end zone. Detroit's other touchdown was scored by Vic Henning. The credit for this should go to Tom Hunter and Bill Dando who set the Titans up.

The Quantico Marines came into Detroit Nov. 19 hoping to beat their hosts and deflate their bowl hopes, but an explosive Titan eleven struck quickly with five first half touchdowns to defeat their guests 33-0. Billy Russell scored first as he took a reverse hand-off from Al Korpak for the final six yards of an 86-yard drive. Late in the period, Grady Alderman recovered a Marine fumble on the 8 and Tom Hunter took the ball into the end zone two plays later. Early in the second period Russell broke over left tackle, eluded the opposing secondary, and went 45 yards for the score. Seven plays later he intercepted a pass at midfield and returned it to the 29 before Lou Faoro tossed a scoring pass to Korpak who was all alone in the end zone. Detroit's last touchdown came with five minutes to go before the half when Hunter broke cleanly over the right side for 64 yards. The Marines threatened twice during the second half but failed to score both times as the Titan line dug in and stopped them inside the ten. Detroit's bowl hopes were still alive as they prepared for their final game of the season.

Titan Bowl Hope Crushed in Finale

There was a possible bowl bid in the offing as the University of Detroit concluded its regular season play at the University of Dayton on November 23. The play was contained almost entirely within the thirty yard lines until the middle of the second period when Clarence Dugan intercepted a pass and returned it to the Titan 28 yard line. Tom Chaney scored from the three to put the Flyers into a short-lived lead. Three plays later the Detroit eleven tied the score as Lou Faoro completed passes of 58 and 20 yards to Jack Vance and Al Korpak. Joe Pascuzzi booted the Titans into the lead with a 15 yard field goal, but Dayton went ahead to stay at the end of the third period as Jim Zimmerman hit Tom Chaney with a 16 yard payoff toss. Detroit was mired in its own territory for the remainder of the game as the Flyers scored an insurance six points to win 20-10, a disappointing end to a very successful season.

This Detroit Squad Was Spirited

Coach Wally Fromhart thoughtfully gazes at a tense, unfolding drama.

There are many things necessary for a winning football team. Perhaps the most important of these things is talent; but almost as important is spirit, not only the will to win but also the mastering of that all important science, that of losing gracefully, giving everything one has at all times. It would be folly to say that this spirit was there at all times in its highest degree. That would hardly be possible, since the players are only human. But that spirit was usually present, and when it was, it could be sensed everywhere: in the stadium, on the bench, in the stands and in the press box. It was that spirit which forced the team to battle in every game, that spirit plus the excellent coaching of Wally Fromhart, John Shada, Ken Stilley, Bob Dove and John Ray which led the 1957 Titans to a season of success.

Halfback Ray Davis sweeps his end in the game with Cincinnati in an effort to gain yardage so that Detroit might score before the half.

and a Winner

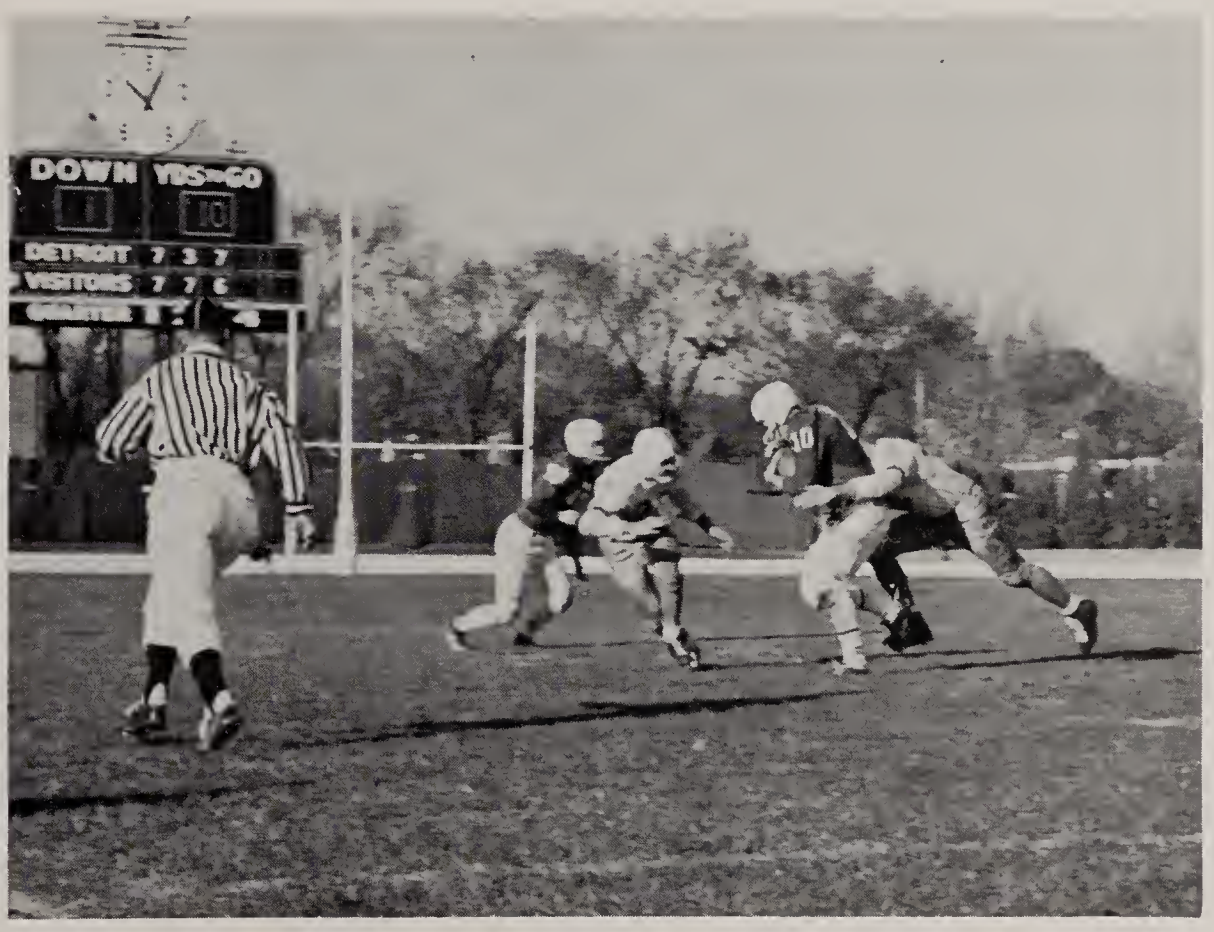
Here is an example of one of the many great defensive stands put up near our goal line.



Bill Dando makes a first down as he guides his teammates towards their winning touchdown.

Emerson Dromgold delays the ball carrier even though he is seemingly blocked from the play.

A Review of the

It was not too big a job to go back over the 1957 football season and pick out its high lights. The whole year was a big one if compared with the previous season when Detroit posted a mere 2-8 record. Why the big difference between the results of the two seasons? Other than an increase in spirit, the improvement could most probably be attributed to added depth, both in the line and in the backfield. For example, when first string center John Carroll broke his ankle in the season opener with Marquette, there was ample strength for that position sitting on the bench. In the backfield there were two separate units almost equal in ability. The ball handling improved tremendously under the tutorship of John Shada and Wally Fromhart. In 1956 the team had trouble holding on to the ball, while in 1957 the team was hailed in Cincinnati as one of the best ball-handling teams to visit there in some time. This was an enjoyable season, replete with football thrills, suspense, hope, gladness, and even with an occassional disappointment.

Bruce Maher follows his blockers as he picks up another long gain. He is one example of Detroit's backfield depth, an invaluable asset.

Past and a View of the Future

If 1957 was a good year for Detroit on the football gridiron, then 1958 should be an even better one. There are ample qualified replacements for graduating seniors both on the line and in the backfield. Bench strength will be added with the advancement of last year's freshman team, one of the most solid in recent history, to the varsity squad. To a schedule which keeps the Titans at home for six of nine games, two new teams have been added: Arizona State, undefeated and 12th ranked last season; and George Washington University. To accomodate more spectators, a return to night football will be effected after a two year absence. Watch the Titans in '58.

Presenting the

A roaring crowd urges Titan gridders towards an enemy goal. A Titan five races down court to hold a commanding lead. What spurs our Titans to a hard fought victory? No team can win consistently unless they have the support of their fans. This is the task of the Titan cheerleaders, to rouse the crowd to spur our Titans to victory. This corps of eight of the University's most diehard fans can snap our team out of a lethargic letdown or can coast them to the winner's ranks by boosting their spirit and fight. Frank Waldo again leads this octet as they rally partisan support with a stutter or a "Red-White," they attempt to throw Titan fans into a frenzy in siding with the team.

Band--a Contrast of Brass and Drum

The shriek of a whistle, the clash of cymbals, and the thumping of the drum swings the University Band into action. From moving marches in tempo a la marcia to sparkling popular tunes or dreamy dance music, the University Band can be heard and seen performing during many of the Titan's sports events. Their spirit-stirring movements are always welcome to the University fans. Besides many public appearances, the band stages an annual Spring Concert. There, under the direction of Robert Taptich, the band along with the University Choral group presents semi-classical and popular melodies for the entertainment of those willing to enjoy their musical renditions. Whether they march or play, the University Band adds color to the Livernois campus.

The Winter Social Cycle

The social event of the year for Army and Air Force ROTC cadets is always the Military Ball. Sponsored by the U. of D. Rifles and Arnold Air Society, the Ball featured an arch formed by twenty crossed sabers which served to guide the queens to the royal ceremonies. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the trophies by the 1956 queens, Connie Slubowski and Magdaline Skuba, to their successors, Patti Cassell, Army Queen, and Jeanne Stunyo, Air Force Queen. The decor of sky-blue and white fitted the elegance of the evening perfectly.

The new ROTC queens were presented at the Military Ball.

Was Rather Formal

The color and formality of the Military Ball makes it one of the best social events of the year.

The strict style of the Ball did not impede the gaiety of the social evening.

The flowing gowns matched well the military air of the cadets' uniforms in the Memorial Building.

Halloween and the Sadie Shuffle

Climaxing weeks of anxiety and preparation, the Sadie Shuffle proved to be, once again, very popular with its public. U. of D. co-eds held the upper hand for an entire evening in a circus environment of clowns, a carousel, and ingenious corsages worn by the male dates. A pair of cufflinks compensated George Vortkamp for Carol Deno's masterpiece which he wore—a tent. Something else out of the ordinary was Gamma Sigma Sigma's and Alpha Kappa Psi's publicity for their Colonial Ball. Live counterparts of the powdered wig era strolled around the campus attracting attention and patronage. The students with an eye on scientific studies contributed their share to the social season. The Odonto Ball was sponsored by the dental students while Sigma Delta and Alpha Epsilon Delta presented the Scalpel Ball. Athletically inclined were most of the people attending Kappa Sigma Kappa's Vacation Time affair. Held after the U. of D.-Michigan State basketball game, the dance's flavor of excitement was due in part to the door prize offered —a pair of skiis and poles. For those who preferred to spend their winter vacation dancing, Theta Phi Alpha and Tuyere presented the Christmas Ball when the bells were yet echoing the joy of the day before.

An attractive dancing couple make for a very enjoyable scene.

Informal chats together at the side tables add wit to the entertainment.

A slow style of music increases the charming setting at the best dances.

Brought Humor

Aversion to formal attire plus a desire to indulge in the ridiculous was mainly responsible for the successful reception extended to the Band's Halloween Dance. Costumed in almost every spectacle available to human imagination, the students were eager to take advantage of the chance to be uninhibited. For one night, they ignored the varied problems and impending disasters of their academic world, prefering to express the spontaneity of their youth in gay frivolity.

Tim Johnson was the hula favorite of the Halloween dance.

Farmer Jones' son and girlfriend were a hit.

There were some dolls present to add charm.

Shakespearians Present "Love's

The second last week in November brought a rare treat to campus. The Players presented Shakespeare's "Love's Labor's Lost," a seldom acted and yet delightful comedy of young romance. With the plot revolving around a group of four over-hasty young nobles, among them King Ferdinand of Navarre, who have sworn their next three years to sylvan philosophical pursuits and the schemes of the Princess of France and her three young ladies to woo the men from their taxing endeavors, the mood is light and gay. The youthful philosophers are not too eager to continue at their studies when they hear of the damsels recently arrived at their castle and even attempt an unsuccessful Muscovite masquerade to visit the ladies of the court. The charming repartee, the plaints of cruel love and the courtly gestures of affection are accentuated by the comparison introduced through the clown Costard and Jaquenetta, a country wench.

Becomes a "Little Academe"

De Armado chases his page in rapier-fashion after a biting pun about his love.

Because of the frolicsome nature of the play there were many opportunities for scintillating secondary roles. Bill Giovan was hilarious as the heart-sick Spaniard knight, irked by the witticisms of his page, Chuck Anderson. Sir Nathaniel, a hedge-priest, and Holofernes, the village pedant were most comical with Hugh Scullen and Pat McNally in the roles of the Latin-prolix "learned." The leading roles were admirably handled, especially those of Biron, Dennis Moffatt, and the Princess, Frances Dunbar. Boyet, acted by Tom Preston, was a great success. All in all none of the actors failed to bring into Shakespeare's comedy the life and vigorous action that it demands. The philosophers did not do much philosophizing but the audience was entertained.

The closing scene brings the entire cast on stage for a song of Spring and Winter. "When daisies pied, and violets blue, Cuckoo."

It Is More Blessed to Give than

The spirit of Christmas is best exemplified in the scene of the Christ child in the Bethlehem crib.

Receive

Some of the one hundred and twenty-five children who enjoyed Christmas in the Student Union.

One youngster finds keen competition from an older brother enjoying one of his gifts.

Christmas at the University is not a private or selfish affair. Instead of only receiving the season's joys, students find that the only true Christmas is the one in which one gives. Sometimes it hurts to take time out to think of others and to make an extra effort to look out for someone else's happiness, but this cost cannot make itself felt in the light of a true Christmas. This season signifies God's giving of Himself to us. It signifies that if we want to achieve the actual and original meaning of the yuletide holidays, we too must shake ourselves from the tinsled shouting and hollow caroling of our own walled-in selfishness. The Women Students League of the University attempts to do this in some way by their Christmas party for the needy of one of Detroit's parishes. By seeing that these needy children have a brighter Christmas, they achieve a solidly Christian celebration of this feast, which can only be accomplished by the going of that extra mile for someone else.

Santa Claus, dressed and beaming with laughter, brings cheer and happiness into this youngster's heart. The gift's value can only be estimated by the appreciative smile on his face—a silent world of description.

Two chums find the range of an approaching photographer and take aim.

One hundred and twenty-five needy children found the holidays a little brighter this Christmas. This year the Women Students League Annual Christmas Party benefited the youngsters of the St. Vincent de Paul parish. Sunday, December 15, marked the special day for these youngsters. They were brought to the Student Union for their party. Santa appeared with gifts and toys to carry on this tradition established at the University since 1947. Cookies and candy quickly disappeared from the tables as the youngsters opened their packages and tested their newly acquired gifts. Many students adopted a boy or girl for the day and particularly saw to their welfare that afternoon. The party was a culmination of the Christmas Basket Drive on campus in which students contributed their share by direct financial assistance or by their volunteer work.

Frivolity at the dinner table accompanied the spirited consumption of hot dogs, ice cream and chocolate milk.

The children show their appreciation of the presents which the party supplied to make Christmas more enjoyable.

The Written Word

The copy writer and copy reader fill the publications with their basic material—the written word. Fingers over the typewriter and pencils over the paper turn out word after word, to be checked, re-ordered, re-written and finally approved before being deposited in the box of corrected copy to be printed. In the Varsity News, the words speak of the present day affairs on campus, tidbits and stories, comments and editorials. The Tower handles a review of the past year. Fresco offers its readers poetry, critical essays and short stories. All in all it is information and enjoyment that the copy man is concerned with.

Gene Scott makes an analysis of the materials for a story.

Jo McGillis, a Varsity News copy editor, questions the use of a particular phrase in a newly submitted feature story.

Tells the Tale

Two important phases of work precede the writing and actual composition of any publication. The one is reporting or gathering facts and information, the second, discussion. Reporters from the VN are kept constantly roaming the campus to glean all the stories and pertinent facts so that the twice-weekly dead-line can be met by sufficient news material. The Fresco and Tower members spend long hours in discussion over general make-up, plans for features and over-all organization of each printing that is to come from the printing offices.

The Photographic Image

Although copy fills up the body of most publications, scarcely any modern text is complete without photographic work. The photographer must not only know his camera and mechanical technique well but he must be on the spot at the right time to get the best pictures that will afford humor, diversion, information and life to the book. Then there is the delicate work of processing and drying the film. The photo editors select and decide which photos are to go to the final printing stage, then they are printed the correct size and submitted to the lay-out department for inclusion in the book.

The taking of the individual portrait shots that are to appear in the yearbook and the Varsity News require a lot more work than the mere flashing of the bulbs and the clicking of the shutter. The proper pose and type of shot has to be determined ahead of time. Oftentimes there is a nearby deadline to meet. Then too, a time for the photographer has to be arranged with both the photographer and the person to be photographed. Many unusual things do turn up in the process. A crossed signal means some warm feelings over unnecessary long waits. Sometimes too a space in the paper has to be filled with copy or a cartoon to take the place of the unphotographed. From the darkroom the photo for the newspaper has to go to the Fairchild machine to prepare a plastic plate for the printer.

Tom Costello pokes lights in your eyes and says, "Watch the birdie!"

Into a Lead Form

One of the biggest phases of good cooperation in any publication is the relations with the printer. For the newspaper editor it means getting down to the printers twice weekly with a sufficient number of staff members to help with the typesetting, the make-up and so on. Fresco is faced with the problem of an artistic arrangement of materials. The yearbook staff has to check and re-check photos, page-proofs, cover materials and type faces in a seemingly never-ending series of visits to the printer where the final off-set printing and binding are to be done.

Friends Help the Library Promote

The Friends of the Library is an association of persons interested in books and in enriching the cultural life of the University of Detroit and the civic community through an active and continued interest in the University of Detroit Library and its holdings. Under the presidency of John Starrs and the chairmanship of Clyde Craine, the Friends endeavor to interpret and relate the University to the community by exploiting the rich potentialities of the Library. They act to procure gifts of books and endowments to enrich the Library's holdings as well as sponsor lectures and meetings on matters of general cultural interest. In this endeavor they presented Hugh Kenner, a young American literary critic of rising reputation, who discussed trends and developments on the literary scenes during the twentieth century. Fr. Zabkar spoke on the significance of the Dead Sea Scrolls. Fr. Lowrie Daly came in January to speak on the creation of the internationally noted Vatican manuscript film library at St. Louis University. Finally, E. P. Richardson gave a talk on the conception and progress of the Archives of American Art project.

A Chamber Concert

In a move designed to bring culture to the U. of D. masses, the University's Student Council initiated a series of concerts last semester. The first of the series was entitled "A Chamber Concert with Footnotes." The balanced program consisted of duo and solo numbers by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Gordon Staples, violinist, and cellist Paul Olefsky. In an atmosphere of pleasant informality, the musicians revised the final program to include works by Bach, Paganini and Ravel.

With Footnotes

The gifted man with the cello was favorably impressed with audience reaction to the first concert. He said, "I think that this particular audience is past the ready stage for the greatest works in music. This program was no compromise. Their appreciation of serious music is obvious." In voicing his pleasure with the attendance, he added, the type of program performed was the kind performed before enthusiasts of serious music in Carnegie Hall or the Town House in New York.

An appreciation of music, all kinds of it in any form whatever, and some voice potential is all that is required for membership. Membership in the Chorus demands the personal responsibility of each individual to be faithful to his rehearsal schedule. Prominent for its variety of choral music, the Chorus is known to the student body for its entertainment between the halves of football and basketball games, annual concerts with the University Band, and its student concerts. Most of their activities, however, carry them outside the University. Every Holy Thursday, the group can be heard singing the chant of the nocturnal vigil at St. Aloysius Church downtown. Besides this, the Chorus does concerts for educational and charitable organizations. No matter where they appear, whether at the prison in Milan or at a high school festival, they leave their mark of appreciation for good music.

Take on New Outlook in '58

The purposes of a university have been debated about and discussed with an ad infinitum number of words by people of all ranks of authority and competence without any arrival at a solution. But one thing is sure that the academic and scholastic phases occupy the major time-elements and interest and are the primary function of a university. A student cannot help but graduate with more information than when he entered. The four years of lectures, library work, writing and reading are sure to bring some measure of success. Only the individual application and effort determine the degree of knowledge attained. Each field of study has its own value and not to be shuttled away as of no importance. But in our modern-day scientific race, new emphasis has come to science and related fields and the methods of teaching and justly so.

Architecture and

Even though sputniks are now whirling around the globe, living on earth remains a very important problem. People need homes and buildings of all sorts. Transportation and machinery are constantly being improved to increase the levels of our civilization from day to day. And the end result is that architects are very much needed to design newer and better buildings than did their predecessors. New concepts in design, construction methods and materials are constantly arising and increasing the need for ever expanding education and training in this very creative field of human expression. For, although we create many art works, the majority of them must be housed in beautiful buildings to preserve their pristine qualities of artistic value. And so also in mechanical efforts, new concepts arise, better techniques and methods, are discovered. The student of today must keep aware of the potentialities of tomorrow.

Engineering Interest Increases

Engineering, of all the sciences, received, perhaps, the greatest impetus by reason of the recent satellite race. The new focus led most colleges to reevaluate their programs and step up the requirements to meet the demand for more and better engineers. The University's Engineering College felt this limelight attention and because of the attention, changes followed for an even better and more complete program. Aeronautical and electrical engineers became more conscious of the roles they would be called on to play in the forthcoming age of electronics and rocket-powered vehicles. Students of mechanical engineering became more aware of the greater perfection in tolerances that would be more and more expected from their work in the future. The overall effect was one of value to the individual student and the civic community in which he will someday play an important role.

the Art of Teaching

Part of the extensive program in the training of every teacher is an exercise in practice teaching. In both semesters of the senior year, the education student is directed out into a school to teach elementary or secondary pupils three classes per week and can gain valuable experience in the art of teaching. Under the supervision of a critic, the teacher handles the class in full capacity as a teacher and thus moves one step further towards the teaching certificate. # Dental School ------ Trained Vocations

In spite of the threat that construction work on the planned Vernor-Hastings expressway may soon level the building that now houses the Dental College, Dean Rochon's school is continuing to train dentists and dental hygienists of high caliber with little worry about the future. The school has produced such outstanding people for the dental field in Michigan each year by means of its modern facilities, including televised lectures, that most people are positive that sufficient arrangements will be made for its relocation before the work begins. The college, accepting students who have already completed their pre-dental program on the McNichols Road Campus, trains them to the high standard required of all dentists. # Fighting Titans '57-'58

The University of Detroit can well be proud of this years Titan basketball team. Led by their hard working co-captains Mike Walsh and Don Haase, the Titans compiled a 13-12 record. Mike and Don led the team in scoring; Mike with his fabulous two-handed set shot and Don with his stupendous hook shot. The two seniors were assisted by seniors Bob Kedzo, Bob Butka and Joe Davis in their last season at U. of D. Three other Titans that contributed more than their share were John Belohlavek, Ralph Uchison and Ray Albee.

After breezing past Assumption, the stalwart Titans ran into the always rugged Spartans of Michigan State, losing 71-59. This was one of the team's best showings of having the makings of a championship team. The winning of a game is not always the most important thing. The Titans in their following game showed what they were made of by beating Canisius, 61-54. Playing their fourth game in six days found the Titans exhausted and they dropped a hard fought game to Wichita, 89-82.

If victory could be measured in effort and will to win, the Titans could never lose. The Titans looked like a championship team when they played and beat Louisville, 68-64, and St. Francis, 79-73. Both these teams were to have beaten U. of D. by large scores but some persons fail to realize that it's hard to beat that "will to win." Next in line on the Titan roster was the Motor City Tournament. The first games pitted U. of D. against Columbia and Marquette against Georgia Tech. The Titans arose victorious by beating Columbia, 78-71, while Georgia Tech beat Marquette. In the finals, Georgia Tech beat U. of D., 70-66, in a very close game. The Titans really showed the student body that they were a team of high caliber. Don Haase won the outstanding player award which he deserved for his superb playing.

"Hey, you can't do that," shouts the frustrated Lance Olson of MSU.

Detroit vs. Notre Dame

John Belohlavek lays one up against State.

The greatest team in the history of Notre Dame came to U. of D. expecting to capture an easy win over our Titans. This was the last and best game of the year on our home court and the Titans never drilled harder than they did for this game. The score of the game read Notre Dame 102 and U. of D. 96. This is not the important thing. We know if our Titans got a few breaks that the score would have been reversed. Mike Walsh broke loose and compiled 27 points, finding the mark often with his long set shots. Don Haase bottled up the Irish star Tom Hawkins while he managed to get more than his share of rebounds. All in all, this game was a moral victory for the Titans and their spectacular coach Bob Calihan.

A coach can develop a championship team but he can't put on a uniform and get on the court. This is what Coach Bob Calihan wanted to do many a time to let his fighting Titans know that he felt they were a first-class championship team. Time and time again, all through the season, U. of D.'s Titans showed that they were trying their utmost to bring glory to their coach and school. The team didn't always win, but they gave a spectacular showing of themselves in each game. Coach Calihan is to be commended for his marvelous effort and achievement in producing a "Championship caliber team" every year. This coming season holds much in store for the avid fans of the Titan Five. Coach Calihan promises a season that will match if not surpass U. of D.'s best.

Titan Freshmen '57-'58

The Freshman often encounters a terrific shock in his first year at college. It takes time for him to become acquainted with the campus and the feeling of almost complete independence. So it was with this years freshman basketball team. Most of the players came from high school teams that had rolled up exceptional records throughout the previous season. To mold these outstanding high school ball players into a high caliber unit was an arduous task. A great deal of credit must be given to freshman Coach Brendan McNamara for his efforts.

Head coach Bob Calihan has said that "this year's freshman squad is potentially the greatest ever assembled here at U. of D." All the ball players showed outstanding ability which will supply the Titans with excellent possibilities next year. The leading point maker was Bob Wright, 6' 4" forward from Center Line, Michigan. However, the most upstanding player on the court was 7' Pete Corbett. Pete, besides dominating the backboards, has a good hook shot and he certainly helped as the Frosh compiled a 7-5 season record.

Potting Shed -- a Struggle for Faith

Graham Greene's suspenseful and profound drama, symbolic of the struggle to pierce through the curtained doubt of modern rationalism, demands a skilled training in the technology of the theatre as well as a mature insight into the nuances of Greene's symbols and meanings. The story centers about a man's uncovering of the past in which he lays bare the deception of modern rationalism with its self-torture and callous prejudices. Its rendering calls for a deep understanding of human suffering, as well as a fine perception of human reaction in the face of a reality which apparently destroys rationalist theory. Such a production, properly portrayed, reflects an accurate criticism and realization of the play itself. Its rendering goes further to enhance the cultural background of the audience with the realization of the theatre as an art and as life with its poignant and classic productions. And the "Potting Shed" is such a play, a credit to Graham Greene as author and a challenge to the theatre division of the University Players.

A Touch of France, the Thrill of

The Homecoming Dance with its literary theme of Shakespeare and the Varsity Ball with its quaint Parisian theme will be remembered as two outstanding social events on the University of Detroit campus for 1957. The Homecoming Dance highlighted the end of festive events during Homecoming week. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Bee-Jays and the Collegians. During intermission Queen Barbara Feehan and her court made their appearance and announced the winning parade floats to the huge throng of spectators. After the short intermission the dancers once again whirled around the Three Witches and their caldron. National differences and languages were no barriers at the Varsity Ball. Bon Soir Paris was the theme of this year's event sponsored by Theta Phi Alpha and Chi Sigma Phi at Botsford Inn. Parisian dress, flower carts, candlelight, and a strolling musician produced the romantic atmosphere of a Paris cafe. The native French and their American tourists joined in mutual friendship and gayety.

Sigma Sigma Sigma and Alpha Phi Omega took a step in a new direction this year when they presented their March of Dimes Skating Party on the ice of the Detroit Skating Club Rink. In an attempt to swing the social set away from the more staid dances, Tri-Sig once again made this effort to gain money for the Polio Fund Drive. The success of the affair stressed the need for more such affairs to replace the standard music dance-floor routine and enliven the slightly dragging end of the year's social season. Holy Thursday evening, St. Aloysius Church downtown slowly fills with people intent on paying tribute to God in thanksgiving for the Blessed Sacrament. Among those filing into the pews are those who through the campaigning of the Knights of Columbus have pledged to spend an hour in Church during the Holy Thursday Vigil. The evening before the Blessed Sacrament is also a preparation on the part of individual students for the coming feast of Easter. It is a good time to take stock of oneself to see where improvement can best be achieved along the line of spiritual matters. Also, it affords an opportunity to seek and obtain aid for the coming exams.

Slide Rule Dinner

It was a night of tense excitement when the 26th annual Slide Rule Dinner finally got under way. The toastmaster was Mr. Sherrod E. Skinner, vice-president and director of General Motors Corp. There was a moment of silence as "Mr. Engineer of 1958" was announced to a capacity crowd in the Union Building. Charles Huebner was presented the award by Dean Clement J. Freund. Dean Freund was then presented with a gavel made from a piece of furniture from his office so that he could take a part of the University with him to Pakistan. The guest speaker was Dr. George Valley, who highlighted the Nation's latest space achievements. The Engineering Student Council sponsored the affair. # Of the Dorms

Although most of the students attending U. of D. live at home, many enjoy the benefits of living on campus itself, within the confines of two main dormitories. Reno Hall, a modern styled and four-storied dorm, houses the upper classmen. A modernistic chapel in this dorm takes care of the spiritual needs of its inhabitants. The social and physical requirements are met with a lounge and TV room on each floor. The other dormitory, Holden Hall, is backed by age-old advantages and tradition. The under classmen also have their TV room, besides a convertible clothes-washing room complete with ping-pong table and soft drink machines. So in this spirit of conviviality, study, and neighborly sociability—especially the latter—students progress through the school year.

After three straight years of bitter defeat, a determined German corps, led by Jack Roll, finally outpulled a valiant but weaker Irish squad in the annual St. Patrick's Day Tug-O-War behind Reno Hall. Charles F. Leichtweis, assistant director of the Evening Division, and Fr. William Berdan, S. J., officiated at the furious tussle. All tugging ended after forty-five seconds as the Krauts outlasted their straining foes. A traditional free-for-all followed the contest. Colleen Nancy Hogan then presented the long-sought Shamrock trophy to the newly crowned victors.

If one can measure the amount of work put into our track and baseball teams in dollars and cents; he would be rich. It may seem as though these two minor sports aren't worth the time to take interest in; but a knowledge of the work that went into forming these teams would bring astonishment to many. Track Coach Vernon Fahrenkrug and Baseball Coach Lloyd Brazil are the men responsible for turning out teams of championship caliber. This year we have a good all-around baseball team that has strengthened itself significantly in the hitting department. We may not have Ted Williams but we've got a team that fights till the last pitch is thrown. The fleetfooted trackmen have acquired some promising young athletes who will give the team the depth that it has lacked previously. Both teams are well-united and trained and have the same common goal, "to win."

Sailing Club

For eight years now the University of Detroit Sailing Club has been providing opportunities for students to participate in inter-mural and inter-collegiate regattas. Just how well it has succeeded is shown by the fact that sailing is now a full fledged inter-collegiate sport recognized by the University. Each year the members journey to Annapolis to take part in a regatta at the Naval Academy. The Sailing Club is also a participant in the Midwest Inter-Collegiate Sailing Association regatta. One of this season's highlights was the Washington "Frostbite" invitational at the nation's capitol. Since sailing competition takes place both in the fall and in the spring, the members are active most of the school year. This year's team was no exception as they met their toughest competition yet. The culmination of it all will be the National finals to be held in California in June.

Orchard Lake is an excellent practice spot.

The New Look in Fencing

Fencing was once an age-old art of self-preservation; now it is an art in determining skill in the use of the sabre, epee and foil. This year's fencing team did not win any championships but they are a fast developing team. As compared with past years, this year's team is very much improved. One of the outstanding fencers is Bill Giovan, who fought his way through the NCAA tournament and came up with All-American honors. Bill is a true example of the drive and fortitude that is characteristic of the fencing team. The team as a whole finished the season with an 11-6 record. The fencers placed 11th in the NCAA tournament to tie their best effort yet. The fencing team is under the masterful touch of Coach Dick Perry who has his eye on winning that NCAA tournament next year.

Two artful U. of D. fencers match themselves in preparing for a meet.

Time and time again U. of D. fencers have proved themselves a team of championship caliber fighting to bring the coveted fencing crown to U. of D.

Intramural

The Titan Bowlers are an excellent example of the true drive behind the minor sports and intramural sports on campus. The U. of D. bowling team No. 2 took first place in the fourth annual Intercollegiate Bowling Tournament. Marty Monks breezed by Reno's Ramblers to take first place in intramural basketball championship play-offs. This year's intramural program was very much improved over last year's. The coming of spring brings the coming of intramural baseball. Who will be the victor this year? Although intramural sports play a big part in the athletic program, the minor sports must not be shunned. No matter what the weather may be, you can always find the tennis team slugging away, trying to improve themselves and bring a championship to U. of D. Along with these men of the asphalt court we can see the men with the woods and irons contemplating the coming of spring and a chance to make things even for last season. This year promises a successful year for tennis and golf and that ever-impending drive and will to win is brought out more and more as the years go by.

Of all Shakespeare's Histories none can match the majestic tapestry of the regal character of Henry V, the portrayal of his ideal king. Filled with the proud spirit of English nationalism, the idiosyncrasies of the Scots and Irish, swift moving in its engaging battle scenes, Henry V is a play of power and dramatic force. The comedy of Pistol, Nym and Bardolph charge the humor of the play as well as the games of Fluellen and MacMorris. The dominating figure remains Prince Hal, the now level-headed Henry V, who has an "aspect of iron." The play ends with an epilogue announcement of the birth of Henry VI.

Marge Manion, Doug Fonte, Nelson Phillips in rehearsal.

The Archbishop of Canterbury tells Henry of his rights.

Phyllis McGrath stitching a robe for one of the nobles.

R. Burgwin, director and Fr. Caine, S. J., chairman.

Bring Henry V to Perfection

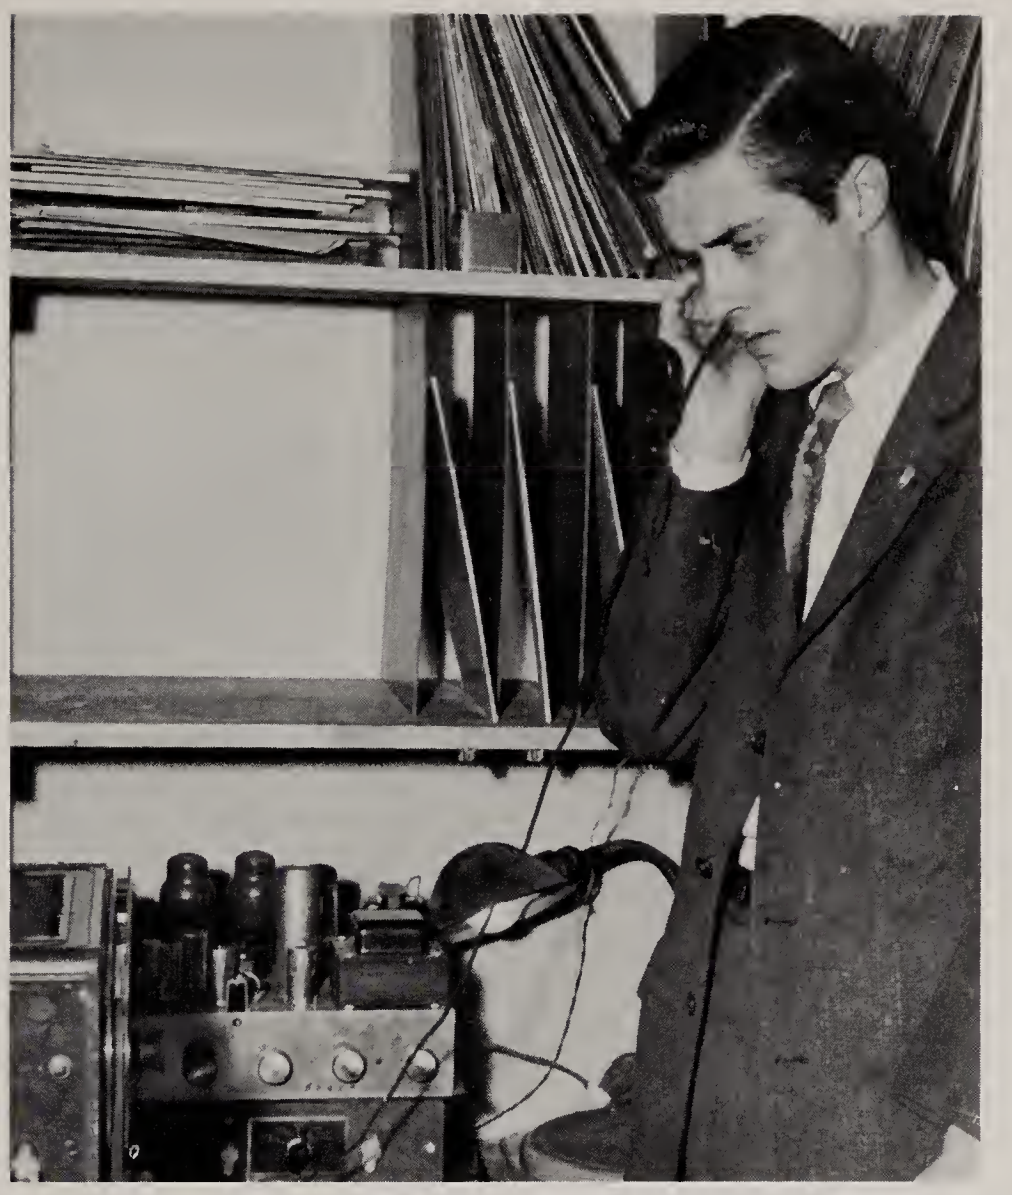
Of all the Henry plays presented by the Players in their now completed series, Henry V called for the most taxing leading character role. Nelson Phillips reached the heights of dramatic effect demanded by the Shakespearean text. Joan Glinski played an excellent role as the coy and wise Katherine of France. The large stately list of personae was cast perfectly and all the acting handled well under the direction of Richard Burgwin. Fr. Caine, S. J., Chairman of the theatre area of the communication arts department afforded not a little effort towards the desired perfection that resulted on the living stage. The costuming prepared by the theatre staff themselves was nothing short of professional effort: the textures, colors, design, all were impeccable. The audience by their capacity attendance every night and their prolonged applause attested to the true value of the performance.



Paul Morand of the Communication Arts department recorded the play.

The last scene of Henry V is a climactic one with the entire cast before the audience's eyes, foregrounded by Henry and his queen, Katherine.

J-Prom Climaxes Pre-Lenten Dances

The heart of the Junior Prom gateways an evening of delightful companionship.

Formally dressed couples walk into the lobby of the Ford Auditorium a few minutes before the dance begins.

A date and escort rest away from the dance floor.

Mere obstacles like broken legs can hardly be sufficient to keep one's date away.

The Gay

The tempo of the Delta Zeta-Sigma Phi Epsilon Maytime Ball was seasonal.

Some quartet entertainment varied the orchestra's offerings at the Harmony Ball.

Kappa Beta Gamma's Tower Ball gave everyone in attendance the best in dance music.

Closing Social Season Is Here

Late spring and early summer saw the social cycle drawing to a close. The threat of the closing of school and the consequent final exams and preparation did not stop the terpsichorean entertainment, however. The Maytime Ball, Delta Zeta's and Sigma Phi Epsilon's affair, used the seasonal theme to good advantage. Included in the run of events was the Harmony Ball, the Calico Ball and Delta Sigma Phi's Boblo Cruise. The themes were rather informal and in the relaxed mood of the end of the year months. For all this the entertainment and enjoyment are nonetheless full and satisfactory.

The musical entertainment at the Maytime Ball was most satisfactory.

Irene Tyburski and her date enjoyed dancing at the Maytime Ball.

The Sophiea twins provided a nice dance skit at the Teke's Harmony Ball.

The Sparkling Variety of Carnival

Carnival time again! Weeks of planning and organizing capture its springtime spirit, and spread it across campus. Various organizations, fraternities, sororities meet to discuss probable themes and possible additions to their repertoire of Carnival booths. King and queen enthusiasts stir opinion, trying to sway votes for their favorite candidates. Posters rise. Dimbo, the jocular Carnival clown, posts his invitations, rallying student interest in the coming events. Soon a king is cheered, a queen is graced. Marshall troops parade before floats and cars in announcement of their springtime reign. A veritable trail of joy and laughter surges and rides in the hectic assemblage of a carny town of fortune. Barkers call and challenge carefree couples to their lure of catchy prizes. Midway booths, blending color with theme, game with chance, now etch their marks upon the sawdust throng.

Joe LeMay and Anne Miller reign as king and queen.

Contestants manipulate in a new rendition of poker.

Rectify the parallel and make both angles correspond to a right angle with the base—good philosophy but what about carpentry?

Construction Prepares the Midway

Three good supervisors and one painter should finish this booth on time.

Sororities play a very important role in making an impressive midway.

It takes time, but artists shouldn't be rushed. Four painters huddle to produce a correct tint. A stroking brush provides an impressive scene.

for the Morrow

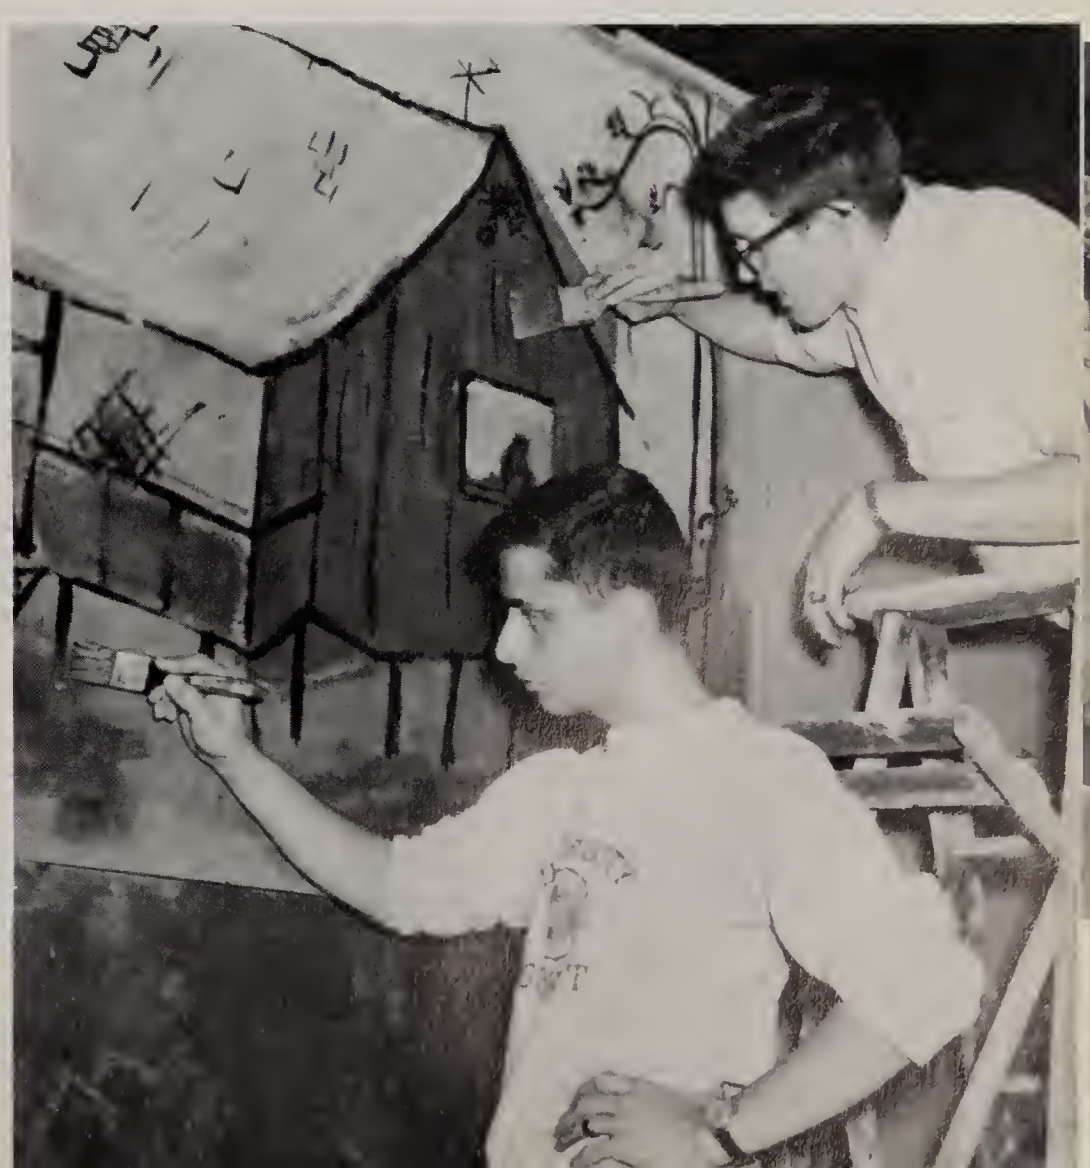
Some of the booths exhibited colorful, well-painted sceneries.



Construction! Trucks pull into the coliseum hauling an arsenal of building material. Early sentinals responding to the bark of a levied quartermaster unload supplies and compare blueprints for a schematic, thematic arrangement of camp. Bustling architects view their wares and consult their tapes and measures. Supervisors bend their workers to hammer and saw. Pony tails and crew cuts whistle and chatter approval of a booth not quite there. An arch hovers and nearly topples before a two-by-four glues it there in space. Soon the naked skeletons receive their coats of skin crepe paper and design. A simple comment thwarts an hour's work. Up goes a sign—backwards. Down it comes, but soon returns in full dignity. Down on one end, mechanics feverishly work with bolts, wire, and grease. A monstrous wheel expands and circles out. Lights weave in and out of the booths, up and down the aisles. The scene is set. All that's needed now is the arrival of the customers.

Panda bears quickly disappear.

Performers ad lib before a big show.

Passersby pause to inspect grand prizes.

Queen Anne and King Joseph test a midway bow.

Step right up here. See it. Try it. Win yourself a prize!

Three weary gallants rest on the ferris wheel.

Who can resist the call of a barker, the relentless urge to plunge a hawking clown into an icy tub of water or the pleading twinkle of a pair of eyes for cotton candy? Those who enter the gala of the midway know its drive for fun, excitement, and laughter. Booths themed with Calypso, L'il Abner, and similar in-the-spirit backgrounds vie with one another for smiling groups of potential customers. But all must wait their turn as the thriving throng picks its pleasure at random. The enticing smell of popcorn and cokes, the blend of coffee and hot dogs halt a few in their hilarious tour in a laugh-filled world of sawdust and prizes. The gates are thrown wide open; myriad lights beam a hearty welcome.

This is going to hurt me more than you.

A glib tongued barker shouts his wares.

Klondike days never reaped such boons.

A sharp-eyed driver guides his roadster to Lady Luck.

A sporting chance at the hoop.

Midway Action at Its Peak

The fun goes on. The buzzing crowd mills around a booth, scouts another, spots a third, and spreads helter-skelter, east, south, west, north, in a confusion which makes a midway what it is. A gleaming face seems bewildered at a doll he nonchalantly wins after five tries. Something white sprawls through the air; a helpless face halts it with an impact of splattered cream and crust. Some prefer to toss baseballs, others rings. A candied-appled youngster muses on his lunch while a bobby sox coed leads her date from pitching ping-pongs to the ferris wheel. A bearded miner prospects for gold in a bucket of sand. Flying darts in pursuit of an evasive bullseye mount the crescendo of fun in a hum of laughter high above the relentless tunes of the midway. A shuffle board in a setting of modern architecture offers winking dolls and walking canes. Gaiety eminates from every gaudy booth, weaving its smile which cannot be denied.

Skill sometimes comes in handy, but not always.

The King and Queen straighten up before their grand entry.

Gay Dance Music

Away from the drum of the midway silhouettes arch and whirl to melodies seemingly altogether fresh. Dan Beloc sets the mood with tunes for young and old. Eydie Gorme soothes swaying figures beneath dim lights in a rhythmned background of melody and song. Each dance changes hue. A charleston hopping pair adjust to a dreamy waltz. Lights dim again to the mellow range of a tenor sax on "Blue Moon." A thumping drum starts a medley with a half stepping, beaty bounce, and ends it with a Dixie version of "When the Saints Come Marching In." Ann Rodgers of "My Fair Lady" fame picks a stub; some unknown wins an Imperial, another a Plymouth. Other prizes are handed out. The music starts again as the dance floor becomes crowded once more. Silent couples weave back and forth as the band strikes up its final number, a haunting arrangement for a last call of Carnival, 1957.

Eydie Gorme, Rev. C. J. Steiner, S. J., Joseph LeMay, Anne Miller, Roman Gronkowski and Mike Walsh pose at the height of the evening.

ROTC Units Engage

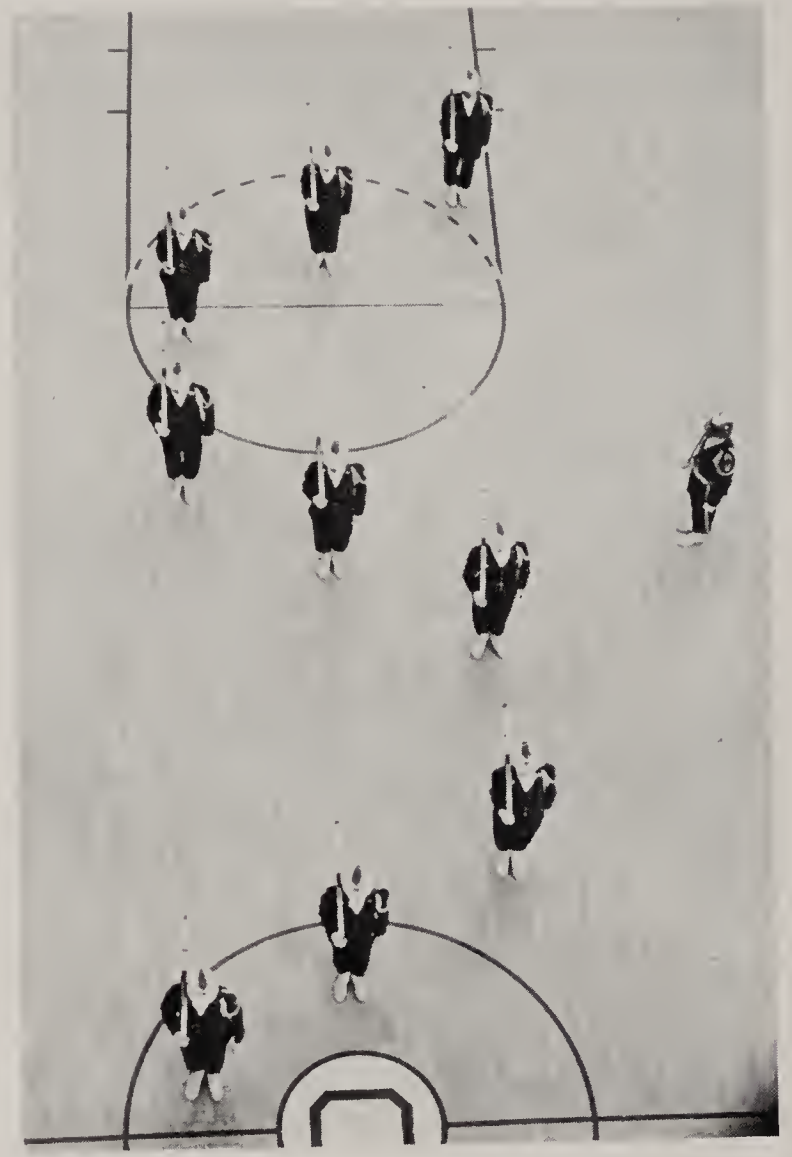
The winning Army ROTC squad in a demonstration of attention.



The actual marching and drill exhibitions in the Memorial Building arena were quite interesting to watch. The interest lay in the precision and skill to be shown on the floor below. There were intricate drills as squads from both the army and air force groups showed their finest training. An impressive platform with rows of officers and judges faced the marching floor. Each of the competing schools had something special to show in the line of feature events and everyone watching was pleased and entertained by the precision and form that all the groups showed. Of course all the time the judges watched both the fundamental and special skills of the groups. After the judges compared the scores, the trophies were presented. Each of the cadet leaders from the winning groups received a rewarding kiss from the charming queens of the respective Air Force and Army ROTC forces.

ROTC Men

Each spring the men in khaki and blue on campus participate in their last big event of the year. ROTC cadets have practiced commands, drills and marching for many days directed by the commands of their barking instructors. All of this practice is for the annual ROTC Field Day which is held in the University's stadium or field house, depending on the weather. It usually happens that, although there is plenty of competition from outstate areas, Wayne State University and the University of Detroit battle it out for honors in drilling and marching routines. However, for the first time in the history of the event, the U. of D. Army ROTC unit received the highest amount of points overall but had to share the Military Excellence Award with the Wayne State University Air Force unit. The most proficient drill team award went to a group fielded by the U. of D. Air Force and commanded by Cadet Capt. Allen De Riemacker. The St. Francis Home for Boys, whose group was trained by the U. of D. Army ROTC detachment, won a special excellence trophy for their performance and skill.

Graduation Brings

This is definitely a time of very great joy and gladness.

a Thousand Forward in Cap and Gown

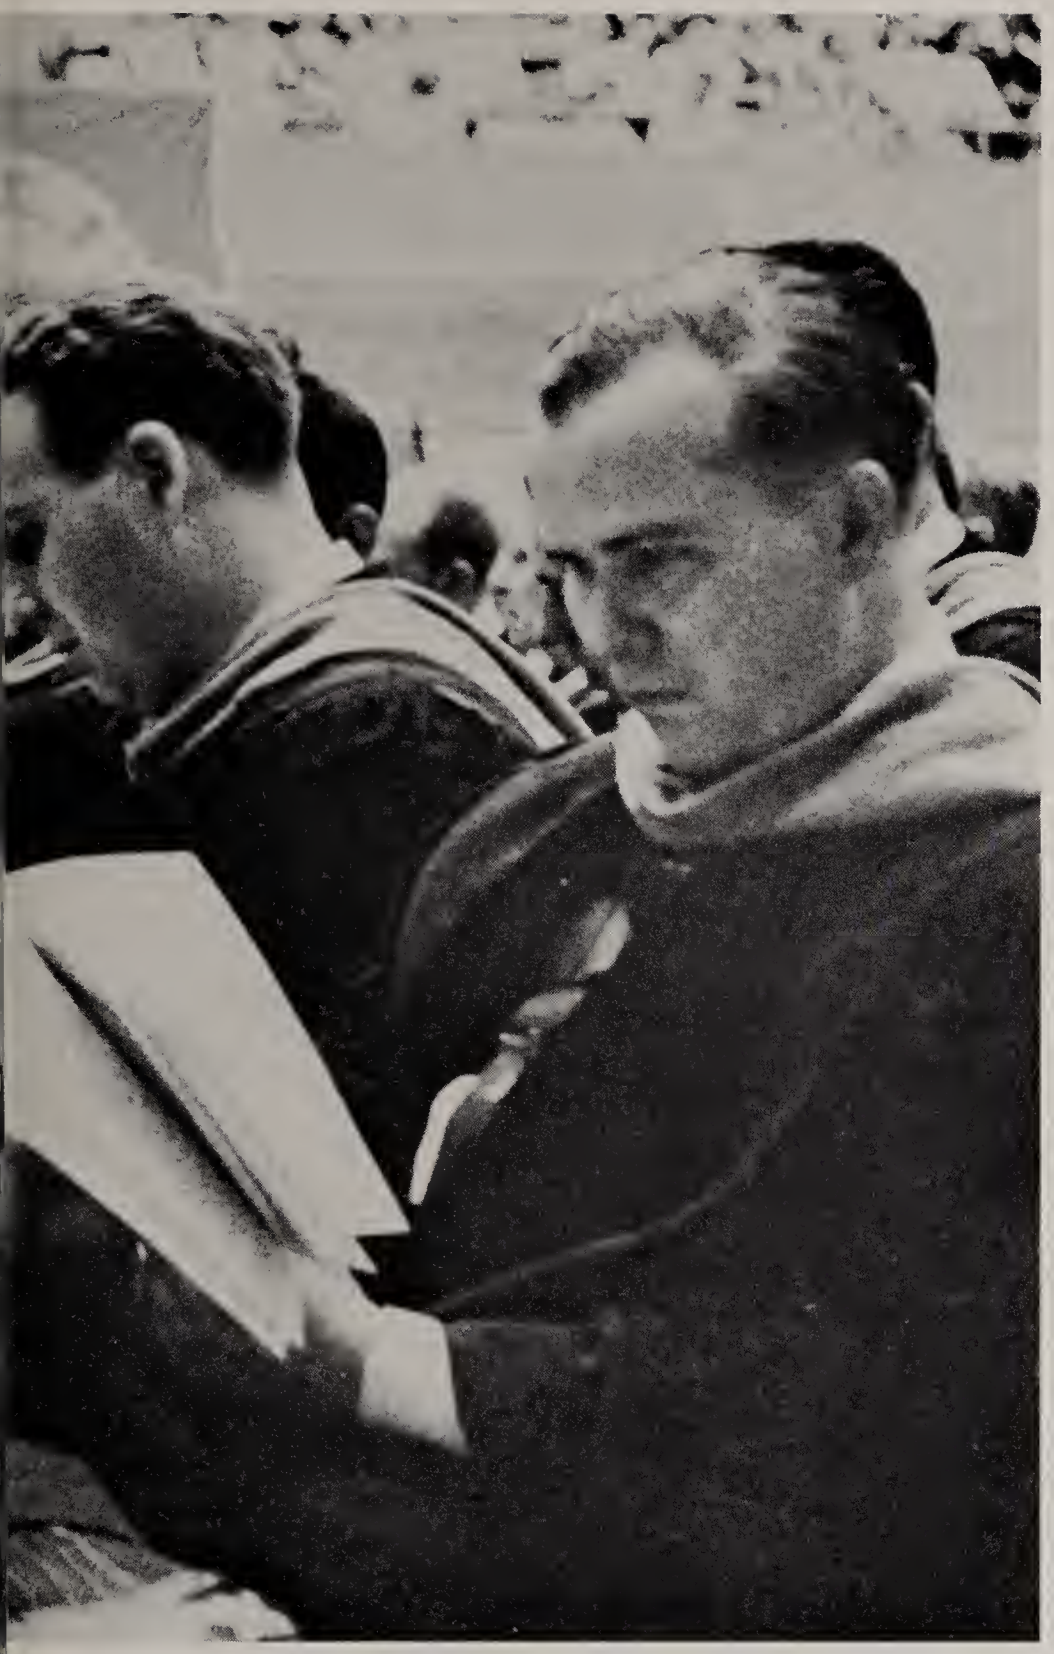
THE COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY IS IN THE ARENA OF THE MEMORIAL BUILDING, FILLED WITH GRADUATES AND PROFESSORS.

GRADUATION IS A TIME OF MIXED FEELINGS—EAGERNESS TO LEAVE AND START ANEW—THE FEELING OF SEPARATION.

Graduation—a culmination, a beginning of things. The scroll represents dreams fulfilled, the speaker's voice initiates new dreams. But where did the time go since registration day of freshman year? How did it manage to slip so cleverly by you? There were so many things you had intended to do, so many things left half-finished. You were always going to put forth that little extra study, and there are graduates sitting around you that you hardly got to know. You look around the vast Memorial Building and wonder at the number of times you've been in it. You wonder when everything stopped being strange and began to seem like home to you. Was it at an assembly or a dance or basketball game? You hadn't realized the change that had taken place. Suddenly you want to remember everything! Mentally you pick out friends throughout the assembled class. You ask yourself where friendship goes when common ties are broken. There's your roommate across the aisle. The cap and gown certainly make him look important. You wonder vaguely if you look like that. Remember how you crammed together far into the night through all those series of finals? You muse on the number of lost hours of sleep. Again you glance at the faces around you. What are they thinking? Are they holding on to these moments as tightly as you are? Do they suddenly feel as sure of the present and uncertain of the future as you do? Your mind picks up something the speaker is saying. "Graduation isn't a time to look back on things lost, but rather a time to anticipate things yet to be gained." The speaker enumerates the world's problems which may be dropped in the lap of the college graduate. And you sit and wait there, one of the graduates, listening.



A line of graduates move across campus—a queue of caps and gowns.

R. W. Bunting and T. Keating receive honorary doctorates; the Rev. C. J. Steiner, S. J., President, and C. A. Harlan who was similarly awarded.

You Come a Senior --- Receive Your

The scroll and initials after your name are evidence you possess the fundamentals, and education is something that must be increased always or it depreciates. Your job is an important one—are you ready for it? Your mind wanders again and you think of the number of past graduates who met the problems of their world. You ponder their successes and failures. It all seems like a gigantic pattern. If you do your best you fit into the right place and run smoothly in relation to the whole scheme of things. 1958—your year of promise. Events will all be dated from this day, your graduation. For years you'll find yourself saying "before I graduated from college" or "two years after I graduated." Yes, a most important day.

Professors come to watch their students graduate.

After ceremonies there is talk about grades and achievements.

Scroll --- You Leave, a Graduate

The ROTC officer receives his approbation from the brass.

Thus we have come to the second part of our book, the people who have lived the academic year 1958 and made themselves a part of the record. This is an album of pictures, faces and identifications. It comprises a great number of people, some outstanding, some great achievers, most ordinary students who have participated in something extra. It contains administrators and professors, deans and chairmen. It is album section, Tower 1958.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA

The members of ALPHA EPSILON DELTA, a national professional pre-medical and pre-dental fraternity, are quite active on campus. The Scalpel Ball, a banquet, and a dinner dance are uppermost on their social calendar. They also co-sponsor medical films with commentaries by medical and educational dignitaries. Their year is highlighted by the Educator of the Year Award given to an outstanding member of the faculty. AED pledges can be easily recognized by the surgical outfits they wear during the final week of pledging.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Awards are a prominent part of the program of ALPHA KAPPA PSI, national professional Commerce fraternity. Annually, it presents the "Man of the Year" Award as well as a Scholarship Key for the highest three-year scholastic average. Members go on field trips, sponsor annual research projects, and enjoy speakers or movies at their meetings. Each year the fraternity runs concession stands at the Spring Carnival, twice winning the trophy for raising the most money. In November, the fraternity co-sponsors the Colonial Prom.

ALPHA OMEGA

In 1955-56 ALPHA OMEGA, a national dental fraternity, maintained the highest scholastic average in the Dental School. It ofiers the Alpha Omega Scholastic Award to the senior with the highest four-year scholastic record. To an undergraduate brother, the members give a scholarship award certificate; and they present the Alpha Omega Achievement Medal to an outstanding person in dentistry or its allied science in recognition of professional contributions. Their social calendar includes a pledge indoctrination dinner and a dinner dance.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Joined together by a program of service, the brothers of ALPHA PHI OMEGA perform a vital service for the University. By working at registrations, assemblies, retreat, and the spring concert, the members live up to the fraternity's motto: "Brotherhood through service." APO also operates the Student Book Exchange with Gamma Sigma Sigma, as well as co-sponsoring the March of Dimes Ball, an entirely charitable venture, and the Calico Ball. The fraternity also holds the "Ugliest Man on Campus" Contest in conjunction with the Spring Carnival.

CHI OMICRON

The newest addition to the ranks of Greek organizations on campus is CHI OMICRON. A local social sorority, it was formed in November of 1957, when its constitution was accepted by the Student Council. Formerly, Chi Omicron was known as Phi Gamma Nu, a national social sorority and the oldest on campus. Although the group was only open for coeds in the Commercial and Finance College in the past, it now accepts members from all colleges. Chi Omicron co-sponsors the Football Frolic.

CHI SIGMA PHI

Seeking to develop gentleman and scholars interested in engineering as a profession, students at the University of Detroit founded CHI SIGMA PHI, a local engineering social fraternity. Yearly it awards an Honor Key to the student who has completed the five-year engineering course with the highest scholastic average. In addition, "Chi Sig" co-sponsors the Tower Ball and the Varsity Ball. The eve of St. Patrick's Day finds the brothers helping to decorate the Engineering Building. They also take part in the Slide Rule Dinner and the Spring Carnival.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

DELTA PHI EPSILON, a national foreign trade fraternity, emphasizes all aspects of student life. To cater to the intellectuals, Delta Phi invites experts on foreign trade to discuss important problems of the day with its members. The fraternity's participation in all intramural sporting events attracts the athletes, and its frequent parties draw the socialites. This full schedule is rounded off with the annual mission drive and a Communion Breakfast, where the returning members send off the graduates with a prayer.

DELTA PI KAPPA

A local journalism professional fraternity, DELTA PI KAPPA, began as a Detroit press club; today the members are active participants in the Varsity News, Tower, and Fresco. Editorial Keys are awarded annually to students for outstanding work in journalism, in this way helping to promote high moral and ethical standards in this field. In 1955 the fraternity was given the Alpha Sigma Nu Award for "Outstanding Christian Achievement." Socially, the fraternity sponsors the Scribes Ball, at which time the Scribes' Belle is chosen.

DELTA SIGMA DELTA

Scientific, ethical, and professional progress is the goal of the brothers of DELTA SIGMA DELTA, which has become the largest international dental fraternity in the world. The members hold various meetings, lectures, and clinics throughout the year. Not neglecting the social side of life, they sponsor dances; and Christmas time finds them active with a Christmas Basket project. However, all look forward to the farewell dinner held as a lasting tribute to departing senior members at the end of the academic year.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

An international social fraternity, DELTA SIGMA PHI was the first Greek organization on campus to own a fraternity house. For the past two years, "Delta Sig" has won the trophy for the best float in the Carnival parade. Last year its candidate was chosen to reign as Homecoming Queen. The fraternity sponsors the Carnation Ball and the Sailor's Ball, as well as the Campus Cruise, the only event of its kind on campus. The members also participate quite successfully in intramural sports.

DELTA SIGMA PI---Gamma Rho

The Gamma Rho Chapter of DELTA SIGMA PI is entirely composed of men in the Commerce and Finance Evening Division on the downtown campus. Each year this international professional fraternity awards a scholarship key to the male senior in the college with the highest scholastic average. November finds the members celebrating Founders' Day, and in the spring they sponsor the Rose Dinner Dance as well as a booth at the Spring Carnival. Ninety per cent of the members of the Commerce Night School Student Council are in the fraternity.

DELTA SIGMA PI---Theta

Members of the Theta Chapter of DELTA SIGMA PI are primarily interested in matters of civic culture and commerce. In line with this, they give a scholarship key to the male Commerce senior who has attained the best academic record. The brothers originally sponsored the annual Athletic Banquet. However, they now honor the football players at the Football Frolic, which they co-sponsor with Chi Omicron in the fall. In September they present the "Man of the Year" Award to an outstanding U. of D. student.

DELTA THETA PHI

DELTA THETA PHI is the largest legal fraternity in the country, the Hosmer Senate Chapter being named after a prominent Michigan jurist, George S. Hosmer. It presents a scholarship key every year to the freshman with the highest average in Law School. This goes along with the feeling that incentive develops a good law student. The members also support all the social activities at Law School, at the same time sponsoring a Christmas party and a dinner dance at the end of each school year.

DELTA ZETA

A national social sorority, DELTA ZETA has the distinction of being the largest in the National Panhellenic Association. Formerly Delta Sigma Epsilon, the group merged with DZ in 1956, assuming the latter's name. The local chapter helps support a college devoted to instructing and training deaf young people. The members collect textbooks for the Asia Foundation and sponsor an Easter Basket Drive for needy children. In addition, Delta Zeta co-sponsors the Maytime Ball, as well as a mixer-type dance.

GAMMA ETA GAMMA

As a national professional legal fraternity, GAMMA ETA GAMMA strives to promote "brotherhood and fraternal fidelity," as well as high ethical and moral standards in the legal profession. Its social events include an annual Christmas party, a golf tournament, and a family picnic. In addition, Gamma Eta Gamma sponsors a Founder's Day. The fraternity offers an award to the freshman in each section of the Law School with the highest scholastic average in his respective class for the first academic year.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA was formed in 1954 and became the Iota Chapter of the only national service sorority in the United States. Last year its membership was greatly increased when Gamma Phi Sigma merged with "Gamma Sig." The members perform many worthwhile services for the University, such as jointly operating the Student Book Exchange with Alpha Phi Omega. They sponsor an Annual Card Party and Rummage Sale, the proceeds of which go to the foreign missions. This sorority also offers its aid to the orphans at Casa Maria.

KAPPA BETA GAMMA

The Delta Chapter of KAPPA BETA GAMMA, national social sorority, first appeared on campus in 1948. Each year the sorority co-sponsors the December Rhapsody and the Tower Ball, as well as actively participating in all campus events. For the last two years the "Kappas" have won the "Ugliest Man on Campus" Contest held in conjunction with the Spring Carnival, and this year they had one of the winning floats in the Homecoming Parade. KBG also presents a scholarship key to the graduating Arts coed with the highest average.

KAPPA SIGMA KAPPA

The Delta Chapter of KAPPA SIGMA KAPPA, international social fraternity, was founded on campus in 1949 by the Amvets. The fraternity now has sixty chapters in the United States and Canada. Last year, the members introduced the "Boys' Town Charity Drive," which is to become an annual affair at U. of D. The "Kappa Sigs," besides taking part in all campus activities, co-sponsor the December Rhapsody with Kappa Beta Gamma and hold an annual St. Patrick's Day Party. Membership is open to men in all colleges.

MAGI

A local Arts social fraternity, MAGI was founded at U. of D. in 1916, thus making it the oldest fraternity on campus. The members celebrate the feast of the Magi, in addition to sponsoring an Annual Orphan Trip. This year Magi sponsored a new and unusual function, a "Homecoming Holiday" Hayride, which proved to be quite successful. Magi Freshman and Senior Keys are awarded annually to the Arts freshman and senior with the highest scholastic average. Membership in the fraternity is open to those men in the Arts and Science College.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

PHI SIGMA DELTA, national social fraternity, is one of the newest Greek organizations to appear on the University of Detroit campus. The fraternity first existed as a club and was officially recognized and chartered in January of 1957. The purpose of Phi Sigma Delta is the fostering of brotherhood, honor, and higher scholarship. Among its various activities, the fraternity has a spring formal in May and participates in the Spring Carnival. Men of all colleges are eligible to pledge Phi Sigma Delta.

PHI SIGMA KAPPA

Formerly known as Alpha Gamma Upsilon and then Zeta Omega, this organization finally became affiliated with PHI SIGMA KAPPA, national general social fraternity, last year. "Phi Sig" actively participates in all campus projects, beginning its social calendar with the annual Fall Frolic. Last year the fraternity won the award for the highest money-making booth at the Spring Carnival when it presented a unique and riotous movie entitled "Around the Campus in Eighty Minutes." This year it received the prize for the best fraternity float in the Homecoming Parade.

PSI OMEGA

PSI OMEGA is the largest dental fraternity in the world, having been founded in 1892. The Delta Mu chapter was established at U. of D. in 1937. Its Big Brother Loan Fund makes money available for aspiring dentists. The fraternity puts out an internationally distributed publication, The Frater. In it are mentioned the accomplishments of individual members, new dental techniques, and communications of interest to the fraternity. With chapters all over the world, Psi Omega is encouraging good will at least among the dentists of all nations.

SIGMA DELTA

A professional science sorority, SIGMA DELTA endeavors primarily to encourage an interest in the exact sciences. Membership is limited to those girls who have elected an exact science for their major or who are enrolled in the Engineering College. The sorority annually awards the Sigma Delta Scholarship Medal to the junior coed maintaining the highest scholastic average in such a program. Last year, Sigma Delta received an award for having the best scholastic rating among the sororities. "Sigma Delts" look forward to their annual Harvest Ball.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

In 1956 Upsilon Delta Sigma, a local fraternity, merged with SIGMA PHI EPSILON to become a chapter of that national social fraternity. Each year the University's highest scoring basketball player is honored, receiving a trophy from the group. In line with this the fraternity received the award for intramural sports last year. The "Sig Eps" co-sponsor the Maytime Ball, but are probably better known for their hilarious entertainment presented at Carnival time; for, year after year, these male "Rockettes" perform before a very appreciative audience.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA is a national social panhellenic sorority which strives for character development, scholastic attainment, and service to children. To fulfill its purpose, Tri Sigma offers its services to the Casa Maria Home for orphans and puts on an annual Christmas Party for the children. Each year the sorority co-sponsors the March of Dimes Campaign and Ball and offers various awards, including the Efficiency Award, the Scholarship Award, and the Best Pledge Award. Last year, Sigma Sigma Sigma won the prize for the best sorority Homecoming float.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Established on campus in 1952, TAU KAPPA EPSILON is a national social service fraternity. The purpose of the fraternity is to foster brotherhood among its members while serving the University. The "Tekes" sponsor the Harmony Ball, at which a Barbershop Quartet Contest is held. The pledges are distinguished by the red fezes which they must wear at all times. Also, the fraternity has substituted Help Week for the last week of pledging, during which time the prospective members perform charitable acts in various parts of the city.

THETA KAPPA PHI

A recent addition to the ranks of Greek organizations on the University of Detroit campus is THETA KAPPA PHI, a national social Catholic fraternity. The Omega Chapter was chartered and recognized in March of 1957, after existing as a colony for a year and a half. The fraternity actively participates in the intramural sports program and the Spring Carnival and plans to continue these activities as well as initiating many new activities in the future. Theta Kappa Phi is the brother fraternity of Theta Phi Alpha.

THETA PHI ALPHA

A national panhellenic Catholic sorority, THETA PHI ALPHA was founded at the University of Michigan in 1912 in order to encourage a closer comradeship among Catholic women students. The sorority co-sponsors the Varsity Ball and the Christmas Ball, as well as having a Communion breakfast and a Founder's Day Celebration on the feast of its patron, St. Catherine of Sienna. "Theta Phi" presents the Senior Service Award to the outstanding senior of the year. Coeds of all colleges are eligible for membership, provided they are in good standing at the University.

TUYERE

The distinction of being the oldest continuously active fraternity on campus belongs to TUYERE, a local engineering social fraternity. From thirteen original charter members, it has grown to more than six hundred brothers. Annually Tuyere co-sponsors the Christmas Ball, and this year its candidate was selected Homecoming Queen. The fraternity gives the Tuyere Fraternity Award to the outstanding graduating senior of the College of Engineering, selection of the recipient being based on activities and personality. Engineering students in good standing at the University are eligible for membership.

ALPHA SIGMA NU

Requirements for membership in ALPHA SIGMA NU, national Jesuit honor society, are superior scholarship and outstanding service to the University. Fifteen male members from the junior class are appointed annually to membership. They present the Christian Achievement Award each year to an organization which has served the University in an outstanding manner and at the same time maintained a high collective scholastic average. The Alpha Sigma Nu Key is also awarded to the student on campus who has attained the highest scholastic average for four years.

BETA ALPHA PSI

The aim of BETA ALPHA PSI is to promote the study of accountancy and act as a medium between professional men, instructors, students, and others interested in the development of the profession of accounting. This national honorary accounting fraternity is open to both men and women accounting majors who have attained a quality point average of 3.0 in accounting and an overall 2.5 average. An Accountant's Handbook is awarded to the student majoring in this field who, in his junior and senior years, attains the highest scholastic average.

BLUE KEY

The BLUE KEY national honor society has as its purpose the recognition of co-curricular activities which publicly reflect credit on the University. At their annual President's Night Dinner, Father Steiner and the presidents of campus organizations are honored. The organization has been instrumental in the development of the Student Council and the reactivation of the Interfraternity Council. Upper classmen who have attained high academic averages and shown leadership in co-curricular activities are eligible for membership in this national activities honor fraternity.

CHI EPSILON

Members of CHI EPSILON are chosen from the upper half of the junior, pre-senior, and senior civil engineering classes on the basis of scholarship and leadership. The Detroit Chapter of this national civil engineering honorary society was installed in 1950. The members take part in presenting the Slide Rule Dinner each year and the Engineering Show bi-annually. In addition, a Civil Engineering Handbook is awarded annually by this group to a senior civil engineering student selected on the basis of scholarship, character, practicability, and sociability.

ETA KAPPA NU

ETA KAPPA NU is a national electrical engineering honor fraternity the purpose of which is assisting electrical engineers to advance in their chosen profession. At the annual Slide Rule Dinner, the fratenity presents an Engineering Handbook to the junior electrical engineer with the highest scholastic average for his freshman and sophomore year. The main event of the members is the Communion Breakfast held in the early spring. Through their national magazine, The Bridge, these electrical engineers keep abreast of the latest technical developments.

GAMMA PI EPSILON

A national Jesuit honor society for women, GAMMA PI EPSILON was organized for women students who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, service and loyalty to the University. Membership is limited to full-time coeds in at least the second semester of their junior year who have maintained a 3.0 average. Gamma Pi Epsilon sponsors the Freshman Coed Handbook and entertainment at the Freshman Welcome Tea. Among its new prejects are an award to the outstanding sophomore coed and a study of the living conditions of women students from out-of-town.

PI DELTA PHI

A national French honor society, PI DELTA PHI established its Beta Chapter at the University of Detroit in 1953. Its aim is to promote a more extensive knowledge and a greater love for the contributions of France to world culture. Active members are chosen for their success in the study of French and for their interest in the French language, literature, and civilization. One of the highlights of this group is a lecture by a well-known individual of French descent sometime during the academic year.

PI KAPPA DELTA

PI KAPPA DELTA is a national honorary forensic society, the Michigan Eta Chapter of which was founded at the University of Detroit in 1933. The several degrees of membership are conferred on deserving students in the fields of debate, oratory, and other forms of public speaking. Pi Kappa Delta, with 184 chapters in 31 states, is the largest honorary forensic society in the United States. The bi-annual and provincial conventions sponsored by the organization are hopefully anticipated by members on Detroit's campus.

PI OMEGA PI

PI OMEGA PI is the newest honorary society on our campus, having been founded in June of 1957. The purposes of this group are to encourage high ethical standards in business life; to foster an interest in business life; and to teach the ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprise. This national honorary fraternity in business education for undergraduate students sponsors a program for the awarding of certificates to students in the two-year secretarial science program.

PI TAU SIGMA

PI TAU SIGMA is a national mechanical engineering honor fraternity whose members are chosen from the upper quarter of the junior and pre-senior classes and the upper half of the senior class. Sound engineering ability, scholarship, personality, and probable future success in the field of mechanical engineering are the characteristics necessary for membership. Pi Tau Sigma annually awards a Mechanical Engineering Handbook to the individual attaining the highest scholastic average during his sophomore year. Activities of the organization include participation in the Slide Rule Dinner and the Engineering Show.

PSI CHI

PSI CHI is a national honorary society dedicated to the furtherance of psychology as a science and to the encouragement of scholarship in the field. Both graduate and undergraduate students with a major or minor in psychology are eligible for membership, provided that they stand in the upper half of their class scholastically and among the upper third of those students in the field of psychology. Annually, Psi Chi offers an award to the writer of the best term paper in psychology.

TAU BETA PI

High scholarship is the primary requisite for membership in TAU BETA PI, since the members are selected from the upper eighth of the pre-senior class and the upper quarter of the senior class of the College of Engineering. At the Slide Rule Dinner the group awards an Engineering Handbook to the sophomore who has attained the highest scholastic average in his freshman year and a slide rule to the junior with the best average. This national engineering honor society also initiated the rating poll for engineering faculty members.

ORGANIZATIONS

A. I. A.

Members of the AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS comprise a student division of the national professional organization, which strives to promote all aspects of the architectural field. Chief among their projects is the construction of better-looking buildings. Public lectures on art are attended by many members in order that they might better understand the principles of design. Three years ago the University of Detroit chapter initiated and sponsored an architectural design contest, which now has become an annual project of this organization.

On campus the AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS AND THE INSTITUTE OF RADIO ENGINEERS are united to form a joint student branch aimed at furthering all phases of electrical engineering. Annually they sponsor a paper contest, the winners receiving a cash prize and eligibility for further competition. The AIEE presents a certificate award, based on activities, to the outstanding student branch member. The IRE Award of a certificate and a year's free membership, based on the same criteria, is received each year by an electrical engineering senior member.

A. S. C. E.

Chief among the activities of the AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS are the Slide Rule Dinner and the Engineering Show. This group is a professional organization established to promote interest in the civil engineering field among student engineers. An Incentive Award is presented at the Slide Rule Dinner to the civil engineering student with the greatest increase in quality point ratio during the past year. On the social side, this organization gives an annual picnic and a St. Patrick's Day Dance.

A. S. H. A. E.

Founded at the University or Detroit in 1949, the AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING AND AIR-CONDITIONING ENGINEERS was organized to supplement the mechanical engineering students' classroom work. The aims of this organization are to form a medium for exchange of ideas and interests in the field, to provide insight into the activities of a national professional engineering society, and to increase the students' understanding of the problems of air-conditioning and related industries. Attendance at an ECPD approved school is necessary for student membership.

A.S.M.E.

The advancement of knowledge in the theory and practice of mechanical engineering, the promotion of professional awareness, and fellowship in the society are aims of the AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS, members of which are undergraduates in the field. The ASME annually conducts a technical paper contest, the winner of which receives a Mechanical Engineering Handbook at the Slide Rule Dinner. The organization also presents the Charles T. Main Award to the engineer with the highest average during his sophomore year.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

The ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY is a national honor society for advanced Air Force ROTC Cadets. The Paul B. Wurthsmith Chapter of this national organization was established on campus in 1950 to "promote American citizenship in an air age." Among the projects sponsored by this organization are the annual Military Ball, a semi-annual blood drive, and their annual dinner dance. A Distinguished Service Award is presented to the member who has contributed the most to the AFROTC in general and to the society itself.

BOARD OF MOOT COURT DIRECTORS

Selection for the BOARD OF MOOT COURT DIRECTORS is based on scholastic and leadership ability. The Board, an autonomous organization, directs and administers all moot court and professional skill activities at the School of Law. It directs both the apellate and trial work which is conducted in the Moot Court Room. Moot Courts, which are open to the public, are often the scene of brilliant professional displays of knowledge of the law by students. Various judges and attorneys act in the capacity of judges for these trials.

BROADCASTING GUILD

The University of Detroit BROADCASTING GUILD produces radio programs which are heard over the Titan Transcription Network. Student writers, producers, actors, and announcers are responsible for eight programs each week, these being heard on a total of 21 stations. The agenda includes such daily and weekly shows as "Answer Guaranteed," "U. of D. Showtime," and "Globe Theatre." In addition, the Guild produces special events programs covering the Carnival, Homecoming Parade, Commencement, and other such University activities. Through the efforts of the Guild, the voice of U. of D. is heard.

CHICAGO CLUB

In November of 1957, those out-of-town students living within a sixty mile radius of Chicago formed a social organization known as the CHICAGO CLUB. The Club has several purposes: to encourage students from that area to attend the University, to afford aid to needy members, to establish a closer relationship among the members, and to compete successfully with other organizations on campus. Next year the group hopes to participate in Homecoming, Carnival, and intramural athletics, as well as other campus activities.

CHORUS

Under the leadership of Don Large, the University of Detroit CHORUS has become an ambassador of good will when it entertains at non-University functions. Probably the most self-satisfying of these is the annual show for the inmates of Milan State Prison. The Chorus' agenda at the University includes the Spring Carnival radio and television programs, Women's Guild activities, campus concerts, and a monthly broadcast on "U. of D. Showtime." Home football and basketball games will sometimes find the Chorus an integral part of half-time shows.

COED RIFLE TEAM

Reorganized in the fall of 1957 after a year's inactivity, the COED RIFLE TEAM only accepts members in the fall, no previous experience with fire arms being necessary. The entire first semester is spent in practicing with the .22 calibre rifle and matches begin in February. At a banquet in the late spring, pins are awarded to those who have participated the entire year. The team's "Shootin' Gallery" at the Spring Carnival seems to be the only booth on the midway which actually parallels the activity of the organization.

CONFRATERNITY OF CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE

In 1956 the CONFRATERNITY OF CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE was founded on the U. of D. campus. As a national organization, its members have the primary purpose of training Catholic leaders in the instruction of Christian doctrine. Each Sunday afternoon, representatives go to the Juvenile Detention Home to teach Catechism, and plans are now being made to begin private instruction in the same manner. The CCD attempts to instill a deep understanding of the necessity for its existence in its members, hoping they will continue in its work after graduation.

DETROIT MILITARY SOCIETY

Composed of advanced course cadets in the Army R.O.T.C., the DETROIT MILITARY SOCIETY is both a service and social organization. It sponsors a coffee hour before Friday morning drill sessions, as well as a dinner dance in the spring for the advanced course cadets; it also aids in Field Day activities by writing the brochure. Right now the Society is waiting for action on its application to the National Society of Scabbard and Blade, into which it hopes to be initiated in the near future.

DOWLING CLUB

On September 16, 1957, four men formed the DOWLING CLUB, which consists of students in the Commerce and Finance Evening Division on the downtown campus. The purposes of the Club are to bring students into brotherly relationships, to promote the spirit of good fellowship, to encourage the attainment of high scholastic standing, to further the professional growth of the students, and to inaugurate a close relationship between the Evening and Day Divisions of the University. At present this new group is waiting for affiliation with a national professional fraternity.

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL

The ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL is a coordinating body of the professional and honorary organizations of the Engineering College as well as all of the engineering students. This group sponsors the Annual Slide Rule Dinner, the biennial Engineering Show, and the semi-monthly "Engineering Television Series." The organization is responsible for the presentation of engineering shows on WTVS and also publishes the Engine House News. At the Slide Rule Dinner, the outstanding senior engineering student is presented with the Engineer of the Year Award.

FLINTLOCKS

The FLINTLOCKS recently underwent an organizational change and are now a recognized fraternity, Zeta Lambda, and function as such. They sponsor the Army R.O.T.C. rifle team, which has been very successful in the past year, defeating both the University of Detroit and Wayne State Air Force units in shoulder matches. The team is a member of the Inter-service Rifle League, composed of rifle teams from the states of Michigan and Ohio. Besides sponsoring the rifle team, the Flintlocks also give various social functions for the members.

FLYING CLUB

The FLYING CLUB provides air-minded students with the principles and techniques necessary to master the skill. Operating from Wayne Major Airport, the Club has one plane available for the members' use. Three part-time instructors, who are also members of the Club, provide instructions for the fledgling aviators until they are ready to solo. This organization also presents semi-annual flying meets and an annual dinner at which time a Flying Proficiency Award is presented for outstanding ability to handle the Club's airplane.

FRENCH CLUB

"Cercle Francais," as the FRENCH CLUB is called, is the oldest language club on campus. It strives to promote a better understanding of the French culture, at the same time striving to provide further auditory experience in the French language and the oral reproduction of it. Frequent lectures and movies enacted completely in French help the members of the Club attain these objectives. By reading French newspapers and periodicals, further study of the French culture and history is made possible. Socially the group holds several parties throughout the year.

HOLDEN HALL COUNCIL

Holden Hall provides a very pleasant atmosphere for 180 freshmen and sophomore out-of-town students. The governing body of the dorm is the HOLDEN HALL COUNCIL, members of which are elected by all the residents. During Homecoming festivities the Hall always makes a good showing, winning the over-all float competition this year. Many of the intramural champions are from the dorm, and all campus activities have representatives from there. In addition to their other projects, the dorm men hold numerous parties and mixers throughout the year.

HUMAN RELATIONS CLUB

The HUMAN RELATIONS CLUB is composed of young people who are aware of the problems of racial prejudice and discrimination which exist today and consequently aim to eliminate them as much as possible. In order to achieve this end, they speak in high schools throughout the city as well as to many adult groups. In addition, movies and guest speakers are sponsored by the Human Relations Club during the academic year. At Christmas time, the Club also gives a party for the underprivileged to spread the joyful spirit of the holiday season.

I. A. S.

An international professional organization, the INSTITUTE OR AERONAUTICAL SCIENCES strives to promote all aspects of the aircraft industry. Each June the Institute presents two certificate awards to members of the student branch in the aeronautical engineering graduating class. The Student Branch Scholastic Award is presented to the engineer who has attained the best scholastic record during his pre-senior and senior years; and the student preparing and presenting the best lecture at a regular student branch meeting is given the Student Branch Lecture Award.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

All of the presidents of the various fraternities on the McNichols campus, with the exception of the honoraries, belong to an organization called the INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL. The IFC strives to promote the interests of the University and of the represented fraternities. Last year the Council cooperated in the organization of the Student Seminar for Campus Leaders. It has also been instrumental in changing voting rules for Homecoming Queen, choosing themes and awarding prizes for Homecoming floats, and establishing new social rules.

JUNIOR AMERICAN DENTAL ASSOCIATION

The student governing body of the entire School of Dentistry is the JUNIOR AMERICAN DENTAL ASSOCIATION. The president of the senior class is ex-officio president of this organization, the president of the junior class is vice-president, and the vice-president of the senior class is secretary-treasurer. All Dental School students are members and participate in all of its activities, which include sponsorship and up-keep of the student center. The Jr. A.D.A. is responsible to the Michigan Chapter of the American Dental Association.

LAW JOURNAL

Law students who have maintained at least a 2.7 average are eligible to be members of the LAW JOURNAL, published five times a year. They write articles on topics of current interest to appear in the Journal, the University's only Learned Publication. Since it is a technical publication primarily used by the legal profession, the Law Journal strives to encourage legal learning by including digests and comments on recent decisions and book reviews of current legal publications. Articles by lawyers and law professors also appear in the Journal.

MANAGEMENT CLUB

The MANAGEMENT CLUB is affiliated with the Detroit Chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management. The organization sponsors speakers and group discussions to study policies of labor and management. It also affords contacts for job opportunities in the Industrial Relations field. Each year the club presents an S.A.M. Key to the outstanding student of Industrial Management. The Management Club was founded in 1949 and was formerly known as the Industrial Relations Club. It is open to all those interested in pursuing a career in management.

MARKETING CLUB

The MARKETING CLUB at the University of Detroit is affiliated with the American Marketing Association. Men who have gained actual experience in the field of marketing come to speak to the Club on their respective positions several times during the year. At these times they impart to the members advice that will be useful to them when they embark on their own marketing careers in the future. The Club was established on campus in 1949 and has been continuously active since then.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Composed of representatives of all the active sororities on campus, the PANHELLENIC COUNCIL strives to coordinate the activities of the sororities and improves relations between them. By cooperating with the administration, it helps to maintain the high social standards. One of its projects is the Intersorority Tea, at which those coeds who are interested in pledging may meet sorority members. It also sponsors a doll-dressing contest at Christmas time. Rushing and pledging procedures for University coeds are bound by the rules of the Council.

PLAYERS

Encouraging dramatic arts among the students of the University is the purpose of the PLAYERS. This organization has progressed from the basement of the Chemistry Building to its present quarters in conjunction with the Theater in the Library. The members take part in all phases of play production and present excellent entertainment several times during the year. The most valuable player of the season is the recipient of the highly prized Kinsella Key. Last year, the Players were given the Alpha Sigma Nu award for "Outstanding Christian Achievement."

POLUD CLUB

One of the most enthusiastic groups on campus is the POLUD CLUB, which stresses an interest and appreciation of Polish customs and traditions and their integration into modern American society. Each year the group commemorates the coming of Christmas by holding the traditional Polish dinner, "Wigilia." Throughout the year many other social functions are held by the Club, which was established in 1948. This organization makes a distinctive contribution to campus life—a better understanding of Polish people and their traditions.

RED CROSS BOARD

On campus the RED CROSS BOARD is the representative of the student branch of the American Red Cross. Comprised entirely of students, it assists in carrying out Red Cross activities. Visiting the Sarah Fisher Home, Northville Sanitorium, and other institutions are included among its many worthy projects. In March, the Board also conducts a fund drive, the proceeds of which are sent to the Detroit Red Cross Chapter. This Board helps the students of the University to actively engage in the Christian spirit of giving.

RENO HALL COUNCIL

Residents of the dorm elect to the RENO HALL COUNCIL those students whom they feel will best serve as a practical line of communication between the Hall and the University as a whole. The Council is the governing body of the Hall. Members of the dorm participate actively in Homecoming, Carnival, and all other school functions. Last year, Reno Hall won the grand prize in Homecoming float competition, and two years ago their candidate was chosen Homecoming Queen.

SABRE AIR COMMAND

The furthering of the purpose, mission, tradition, and concept of the United States Air Force as a means of national defense is the major objective of the SABRE AIR COMMAND. This AFROTC honor society co-sponsors the Military Ball and the annual blood drive. A blue and white bar ribbon is awarded to all members in recognition of fulfillment of the entrance requirements. The Colonel James O'Shea Award is presented annually to the individual who has contributed the most to the betterment of the Society.

RIFLES

The Army ROTC drill team is sponsored by the University of Detroit RIFLES. This drill team competes in various events throughout the country, including the annual Michigan State Competitions. Medals are awarded by the Rifles to the best drilled members of the team. In addition, they co-sponsor the Military Ball with the Arnold Air Society in December. In conjunction with this dance, the Army ROTC Sweetheart is chosen. She and the Air Force Sweetheart are crowned at the Ball and reign for an entire year.

SAILING CLUB

In April of 1957, sailing was officially recognized as a varsity sport on campus. The SAILING CLUB provides opportunities for students to participate in this sport through intermural and intercollegiate regattas. In the spring and fall the Club competes with colleges in the East and the Midwest. The highlight of the season is the annual weekend race at the Naval Academy in Annapolis. However, all the enthusiasm of the members is not directed toward sailing; they sponsor a float at Homecoming and a booth at the Spring Carnival.

SAINT FRANCIS CLUB

In a house near the University, a group of out-of-town students eat together for the sake of economy and companionship. Established in 1940, the SAINT FRANCIS CLUB fulfills its aims by providing wholesome but inexpensive meals for the members, at the same time aiding them in their social development through the establishing of new friendships. On Saint Patrick's Day, a tug-of-war is staged between the Irish and the Germans. The 1957 Homecoming parade saw the Club win the trophy for the best organizational float.

SKI CLUB

The primary purposes of the SKI CLUB are to provide a means for skiers on campus to become acquainted and to arrange transportation and lodgings for their ski trips. Meetings, which are held each Thursday evening, often include ski movies and lectures on equipment and techniques. During the last winter season, Club members enjoyed skiing and toboganning at such ski areas as Boyne Mountain and Mount Trembland. The largest expedition of the season took place over the Christmas vacation, when forty members celebrated New Year's Eve at Caberfae.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE CLUB

Men and women from industry who speak regarding entrance into the field of secretarial science are frequent visitors at the meetings of the SECRETARIAL SCIENCE CLUB. This Club was founded for the benefit of those taking secretarial courses and aims to ready its members for their entrance into this field. A carefully planned social program enables the members to acquire those personality traits which are desirable for their career. Membership is mainly restricted to the two-year secretarial science students.

S. A. M. E.

A red, black, and white bar ribbon is awarded to all ROTC cadets accepted into the SOCIETY OF AMERICAN MILITARY ENGINEERS. This organization strives to increase the engineering potential of the United States for national security and to foster an engineering sense of responsibility and education. Through field trips to the Detroit Arsenal, Soo Locks, and oil refineries, the cadets become acquainted with Army engineering. By active participation in all campus function, the ASME strives to send a completely educated man into the engineering field.

S.A.E.

Acquainting students with all the aspects of the automotive industry is the aim of the student branch of the SOCIETY OF AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEERS, a national professional organization. Tours, conventions, technical meetings, writing, and discussions give the members an opportunity to prepare themselves for the position of professional engineers in the industrial world. This organization is open to any student interested in automotive development and engineering. However, the SAE does not restrict itself to professional activities; rather, it takes part in all campus events.

SPEECH CLUB

The furthering of speech by means of intercollegiate discussions, extempore speeches, debates, and discussions is the objective of the SPEECH CLUB. Each week the members gather together to perfect their persuasive powers. Besides participating in the Intercollegiate Speech Festivals, two oratory contests are held during the second semester as an added incentive to the members of the Club. In addition, the highly prized Skinner Debate Medal is awarded each year to an undergraduate selected on the basis of his skill in debating.

SODALITY

The SODALITY is a unique campus organization in that it provides its members with a life-time membership. Its goals are the sanctification of self and neighbor and the spread of the Catholic Church. The Sodality offers Catholics a permanent way of life by which they can realize these goals. The functions of this organization on campus include a mixer for the new freshmen during registration week; an annual Christmas Card Sale, the proceeds of which go to the missions, and a dance, Rhapsody in Blue.

STUDENT ATHLETIC ADVISORY BOARD

Members of the STUDENT ATHLETIC ADVISORY BOARD are selected by the legislative councils they represent. The primary work of the Board is to aid and foster the athletic program in any way possible. It is to act as a liaison between the administrative program for athletics and the student governing councils. The Board itself is not a legislative body, but rather a public relations and promotional medium. It initiated "Red and White Day," when the students show their spirit by wearing the school colors.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

All student activities at the Law School which are not sponsored by the Law Journal or the Moot Court are handled by the STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION. Each class has two members serving on the board: the class president and another elected representative. It is responsible for Freshman Orientation Week, the speaker series, and the pre-legal clinic. In addition, it handles all social functions, including such events as the Senior Banquet. At present, the Association is planning to set up a committee of students to handle the library problem.

Brick; R. Simoneau.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The top element of student government on campus is the STUDENT COUNCIL, which is composed of the members of the Women Students' League Board and the Student Union Board of Governors. All members, with the exception of the officers, belong to one of three standing committees: student affairs, public relations, or student government. The Council supervises all student activities and runs various campus elections, including those which bring the Spring Carnival Committee into existence. The two largest projects of the Council are Freshman Orientation and Homecoming.

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOC.

A national professional teachers' society, the STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION is a relatively new organization on the University of Detroit campus, having been founded in September of 1957. It strives to promote an understanding of the teaching profession, to stimulate an interest in the teaching career, and to advance and develop high professional standards. The University member of the SNEA is a member of the State and National Education Association with all the rights, privileges, and duties of membership in these professional organizations.

STUDENT UNION

The fellowship medium which brings together all male students of the University is the student union. In addition to providing recreation and opportunities for social contacts, the Union aims at fostering genuine democracy among the students, developing their sense of responsibility, and promoting their powers of self-government. The governing body, the STUDENT UNION BOARD OF GOVERNORS, is partly elected and partly appointed. In addition to operating the Union Annex, the Student Union Board sponsors movies on Sunday nights and the sale of beanies and pins during Freshman Welcome Week.

WOMEN STUDENTS' LEAGUE

All women students are members of the WOMEN STUDENTS' LEAGUE, an extremely active body on campus. The League Board, elected in the spring from the entire coed body, is the guiding group of the League. Among its many projects are the Freshman Welcome Tea, the Sadie Shuffle, the Campus Christmas Party, the Match-Me Picnic, and the Dad-Daughter Date. The past year also found the League sponsoring polio shots. In addition, the "Mother of the Year" Award is presented to an outstanding woman.

XGI CLUB

As the name implies, the XGI CLUB is the University of Detroit's veteran organization. Formerly known as the Korvets, the organization was restricted at one time to those veterans who had been in the Korean War. However, in 1956 the name of the group was changed so as to include all former servicemen. The XGI's sponsor the Guidon Cotillion and entertain the boys of the St. Francis Home. In addition, they build a Homecoming float and a Carnival booth and participate in intramural sports.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Organized in 1888, the ALUMNI ASSOCIATION aims to bring the alumni into closer fellowship with one another and with their Alma Mater. General membership includes all graduates as well as those former students who have successfully completed at least twelve hours of work at the University. This organization's offices are situated in Lansing-Reilly Hall, and through them the alumni records are maintained. In addition, the Alumni Bulletin is published monthly, having a circulation of over twenty-five thousand persons.

Administrators of the University

Behind the scenes of every major human endeavor are the planners and supervisors who direct the business functions and coordinate the many-faceted activities. The same is nonetheless true of a university. Trustees fulfill the ever-important financial advisory position in the administration. But the guiding spirit behind the University of Detroit is the spirit that directs the activity of the President, Fr. Celestin J. Steiner, and his vice-presidents. The vast files of the University must be ordered and in readiness to yield necessary information. The direct student supervisory task falls to the Dean of Men and Women. The direction of the ever-expanding library is a task of no small size. Purchasing alone demands a staggering amount of effort. Altogether, it adds up to a tremendous task and responsibility to which each of the following men and women have been scrupulously faithful.

President

FR. CELESTIN J. STEINER, S. J., President of the University of Detroit. This year under his supervision the first complete Freshman Ph.B curriculum via TV was initiated through the WTVS facilities. The athletic program flourished and a new building was begun on campus —all signs of the arduous efforts put forth by our president to further the University of Detroit. Father Steiner is a member of the National American Council on Education and the Detroit Educational Television Foundation. His spirit and energy have given him prominence in these fields in both the Detroit area and on the national scene.

Vice-Presidents

FR. HUGH F. SMITH, S. J., is Executive Vice-President of the University. Besides caring for all academic affairs on campus, Father is the advisor of foreign students.

MR. JOHN R. MULROY is Vice-President of the University in charge of development, the athletic program, and supervising alumni and community relations.

1958 Graduates

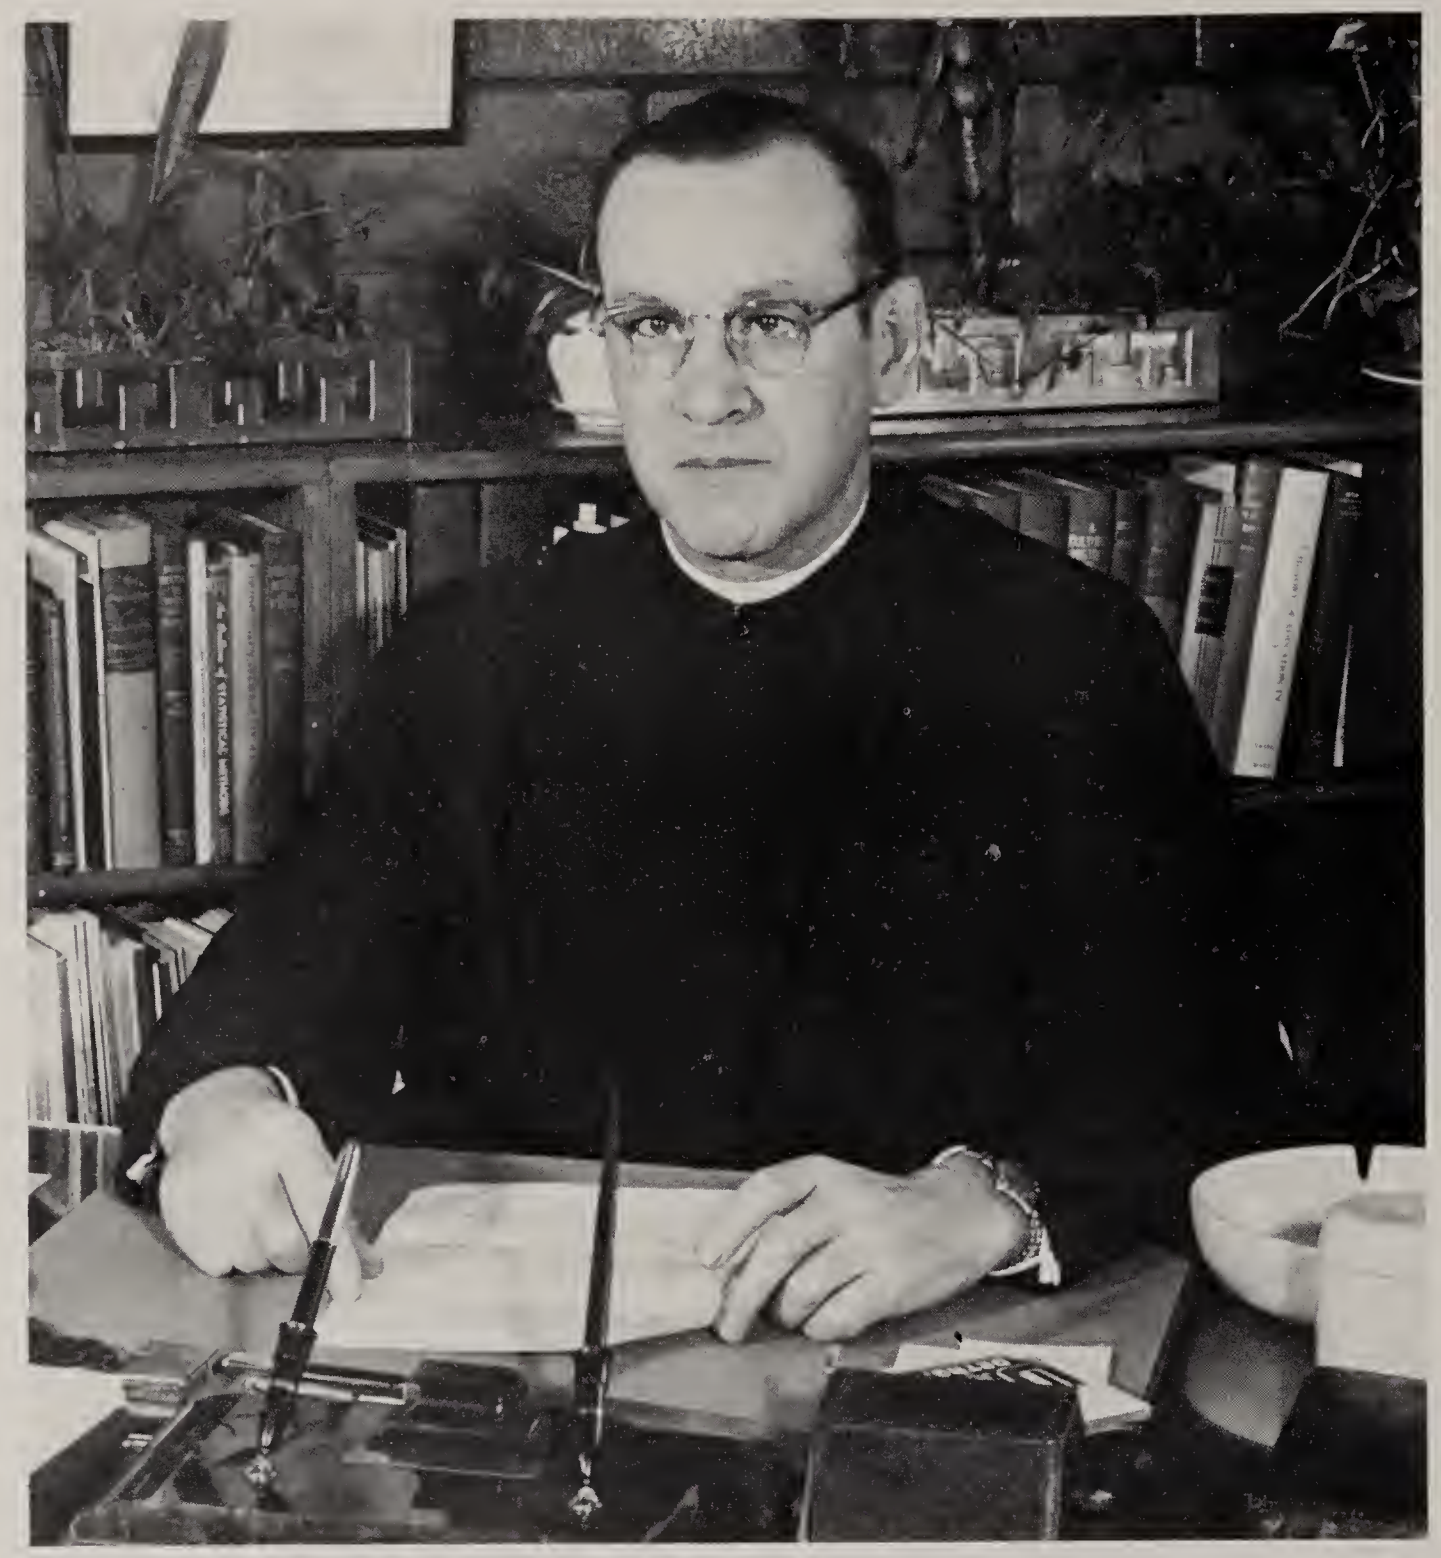
A graduate represents a criterion of success. The degree that he receives is a symbolic diploma attesting to the field and measure of his efforts. His learning and knowledge show how many hours of teaching, lecturing and instructing were expended. His name stamped in manifold library volumes tells of the reading that increased his store of knowledge. But only the graduate himself knows the hours of study, reading and writing that went into his education. No list of activities, memberships, or honors can tell the full story. So we do not attempt to narrate all, only what we can. These are the graduating students of the year 1958.

Professors discuss the work of many years in the past.

The Commerce and Finance Building saw the efforts of thousands of would-be graduates.



FR. LAURENCE BRITT, S. J., is Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Father Britt is a U. of D. graduate from the 1933 class, completing his Ph.D work at the University of Minnesota. He applies himself with great vigor toward the promotion of highly scholastic spirit in his college which in turn he knows will turn out Catholic men and women with a good liberal education and thus better enabled to meet the requirements life will ask of them.

College of Arts and Sciences

FR. MALCOLM T. CARRON, S. J., is Assistant Dean of the Arts and Sciences College. Besides his position as assistant in the Arts office Fr. Carron is an instructor in the education department. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

FR. JAMES P. CAINE, S. J., is Chairman of the Theatre Area of the Communication Arts Department and Moderator of the Players.

FR. JOHN E. COOGAN, S. J., heads the Sociology Department. He is a prominent figure in the field of social relationships in Detroit.

DR. LESTER P. COONEN is the Chairman of the University's Biology Department as well as a fine lecturer in that department.

DR. ARTHUR GNAU heads the Music Department on the uptown campus and is specially interested in history and philosophy.

DR. DANIEL L. HARMON is Chairman of the Physics Department and a specialist in ultrasonics, noise-control and nuclear energy.

MR. DENIS R. JANISSE is a professor of French and Chairman of the Modern Languages Department of the University.

FR. ARTHUR E. LOVELEY, S. J., as Chairman and assistant professor of the Theology Department, is especially interested in inter-racial activities.

DR. LYLE MEHLENBACHER, Chairman and professor of the Mathematics Department, received his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.

MR. WILLIAM MURPHY is Chairman of the Radio-TV Department as well as co-ordinator of the entire Communication Arts Department.

DR. CLAUDE L. NEMZEK, Chairman of the Department of Education, is a member of the Arts and Sciences executive committee.

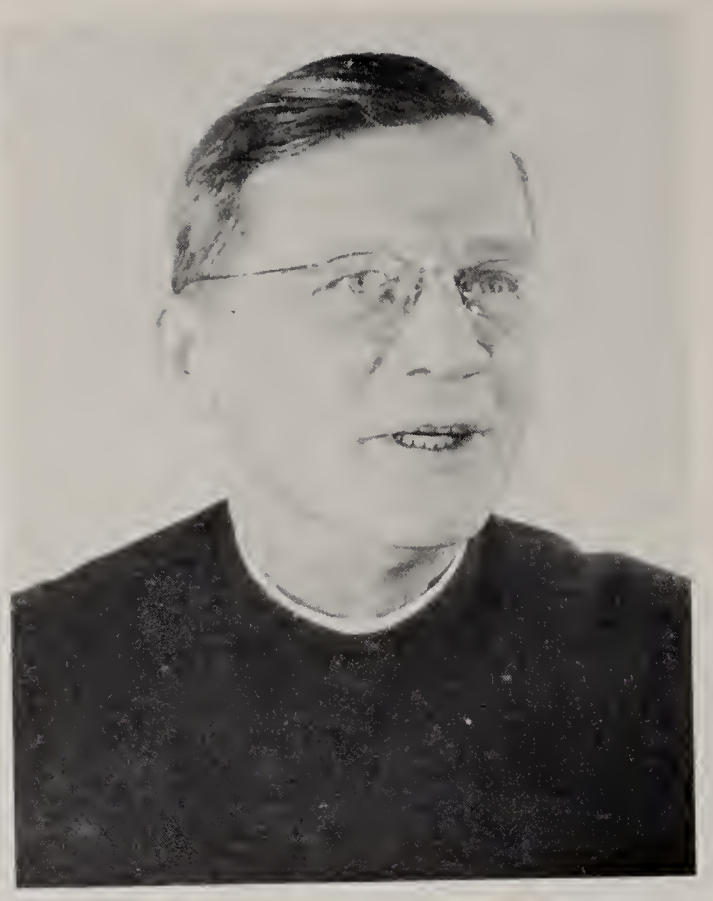
FR. BURKE O'NEILL, S. J., is the English Department's Chairman. Fr. O'Neill also lectures on Shakespeare and Chaucer.

FR. HUGH P. O'NEILL, S. J., heads the Classical Language Department and is a member of the Michigan Academy of Fine Arts, Sciences and Letters.

DR. TIBOR PAYZS, who graduated from the Royal Hungarian University in Budapest, serves as Chairman of the Political Science Department.

MR. CHARLES L. SANDERS is an assistant professor of Communication Arts and the Chairman of the Journalism Department.

MR. HENRY C. SCHNEIDEWIND heads the Department of Speech specializing in adult education and development programs as well as human relations.



FR. CHARLES SCHRADER, S.J., a graduate of St. Louis University, is the head of U. of D's Department of History.

FR. GEORGE J. SHIPLE, S.J., D.SC., a member of the American Chemical Society, is Chairman of the Chemistry Department.

FR. JULES J. TONER, S.J., a specialist in theology and philosophy, is the Chairman of the Department of Philosophy.

DR. ALOYSIUS G. WEIMER, an accomplished portrait painter and landscaper, is Chairman and associate professor of the Fine Arts Department.

College of Dentistry

DR. RENE ROCHON holds the position of Dean of the College of Dentistry. This Dinan Hall dean is a real innovator in his field. TV has found an extensive use in the school lectures and demonstrations under Dean Rochon's encouragement. The dean keeps his students reminded that dentistry is more than just an isolated science. His emphasis on an understanding appreciation of the anatomy of the entire body gives the graduate dentist a realization of the relationship of the oral cavity to the whole structure.

MR. CLEMENT FREUND is Dean of the College of Engineering. Mr. Freund has added much prestige to the college and given many graduates an invaluable aid by the stress that he puts on a well-rounded education, all of which ties into his concept that engineering is more than a purely technical study. Besides being a professor of industry, he is a specialist in the categories of the ethics of engineering education and the relations between engineering education and industry.

Special Division Deans

DR. FRANCIS A. ARLINGHAUS directs the McNichols Campus Evening Division. His able administration of the evening school permits students to work by day and learn by night. He received his Master and Doctorate from Harvard University. As a professor of history his specialty lies in the field of modern European history, with particular emphasis on the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. His activities include a committee membership at the Human Relations Center and the American Catholic Historical Association.

MR. EVERETT M. STEINBACH is Dean of the College of General Studies. Besides his many duties in this office he is an assistant professor of mathematics. He is a graduate of Northern Michigan College of Education in the Upper Peninsula and completed his Master's program at U. of D. in the field of mathematics. He is very interested in human guidance programs which help him in his task as the Dean of General Studies. He serves on the committee for registration, one of the standing committees of the University.

FR. CHARLES A. WEISGERBER, S.J., is serving this year as acting dean of the expanding graduate school in addition to being chairman of the psychology department. He took over this position this year after Fr. Farrell, the former dean, was appointed to another location by his superiors. Fr. Weisgerber is especially interested in the areas of the psychology of learning and research in the fields of personality traits, feelings and emotions. He is a member of the National Academy of Religion and Mental Health and also the American Psychological Association.

A SALUTE—

To our Alma Mater, the University of Detroit, as you continue to set the pace in the educational world. Pioneer in the cooperative plan of Engineering training, you are again in the forefront with instructional television and as a leading participant in the Jesuit Universities Research Group.

May you continue to grow in stature and may the future bring you added opportunities for increased service to God and humanity.

WAY TO BETTER LIVING

Learning provides a key to the spiritual and material riches of the world. Through learning, science and industry have combined to bring new convenience, new benefits and a new measure of leisure into our lives.

In this evolution electricity has played a leading part.

In the years to come you will live still better electrically for greater things are in store. But it will take ever higher standards of learning to win them.

Good luck to you in helping to make the dreams of today the realities of tomorrow.

DOCTOR LAWYER PHOTOGRAPHER *

When you think about it, the family photographer falls somewhere in the family doctor-lawyer classification. The photographer, like the doctor and lawyer, is called upon when major events in your life occur. With a fine studio portrait you can relive in later years the happiness of the engagement, the wedding, the arrival of children. A photograph is part of forever, and our studio takes this responsibility seriously.

* We are proud to be the photographer chosen to photograph your graduating class. We hope that this is the beginning of a lifelong relationship.

The Walter O. Briggs Liberal Arts Building

Ground wos broken on August 8, 1957 for the Wolter O. Briggs Liberol Arts Building, which is expected to be reody for closses in September of this yeor.

The new building will provide clossroom spoce for 1183 students. In addition it will include 79 offices for faculty, two seminor rooms, o foculty conference room, on ort room bookstore, photogrophic center, o modern longuoge laborotory ond mathemotics deportment computed loborotories.

"The new building," explains Prof. L. Robert Blokeslee of the U. of D. deportment of architecture, "is onother step in the architecturol development of the McNichols Rood compus.

"Early buildings followed the troditionol Sponish Renoissonce style of the Society of Jesus buildings around the world. With the building of the moin librory in 1950 begon o groduol swing towords a contemporory style.

"The focode of the Briggs building will include limestone combined with red granite ond o relotively new building moteriol. This lotter is pre-cost concrete with o surfoce inset of Itolion gloss chips."

The comprehensive design for the T-shoped building includes plons for future exponsion. Eventuolly the university hopes to add two addition wings, converting the structure into on E-shaped building.

Bookstore facilities will be considerobly exponded in the Briggs Building, with doubled soles spoce ond four times os much storoge area.

Modern longuoge laborotory equipment will include on area with 30 isolotion booths equipped with tope recorders, and on eorphone sound system.

From a moster control desk the longuoge instructor will be oble to feed different progroms to the eorphones of different students. Students listen to the recorded words, repeat them into a tope recorder which records both the original recording ond the student's pronunciotion.

The student then ploys bock the tape ond compores his pronunciotion with thot of the recording.

The speciol computer loboratories of the mothemotics department will include the electronic digitol computer. The mochine, o junior electronic broin, wos presented to the University of Detroit by the Burroughs Corp. for reseorch work. It is presently housed in the Librory.

All clossrooms in the building will be wired for closed circuit television, with additionol antenna focilities for receiving TV programs over the air from regular stotions.

THE FOLKS THAT PREPARE FIVE THOUSAND MEALS A DAY IN THE STUDENT UNION.

Providing quantity and quality in the preparation of food is always a problem so we thought you might want to meet some of the folks that prepare over five thousand meals a day in your Student Union.

Lower left—Dorothy Chapman, one of our sandwich girls makes some of the hundreds of sandwiches prepared each day.

Center right—Looks like Catherine Brostowski, cook's helper, is readying some toasted sandwiches on the grill.

Lower right—Joe E. Winston, one of our cooks watches over a vat of soup.

Lower Center—Our bakery is in charge of one of the few father and son combinations in the business. Here Yelmar Olsen, the father and his son Fritz, Head Baker, prepare those delicious rolls for the oven. Assisting them are James Randolph, left, and Clayton Moore, baker's helper.

Footnote

A look at the staff listings of a yearbook never gives the complete picture of all who have been connected with its production. The sources of ideas, photographs, criticisms and the like are many and varied. It is to these persons that this memorandum is directed. Special thanks are extended to: Mrs. Bob Graham for the use of her kitchen, living room and basement for photographic and layout work and for lending her husband who believes in a 26-hour day; Ed Nixon for the organization pictures; Walter Howell for filling 15 advertisement pages; Steve Trupiano for helping to keep us within our budget; Mr. Allen of Hudson's Photography Studio for the senior pictures; Ed and Dek Haun for the use of their photos; Bill Rabe for making his photo files accessable; Mrs. Warner and the bookstore staff for distributing the Tower; the faculty and administration for their cooperation; Fr. Robert Hinks, our moderator, for patience and endurance; the Gossman-Knowling Co. for processing our color transparencies; Jackson Typesetting Co. for its accuracy; Masura Offset Co. for its patience and printing; and Commercial Bindery, Inc. for its excellent binding.
